BENNETT, PM TALK PRIVATELY ON TAXES

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent and Premier Bennett of British Columbia today conferred on tax arrangements between B.C. and the central government following Friday's federal-provincial fiscal conference.

Mr. Bennett said later it was a "free and open" discussion but declined to say whether he brought up the question of major changes in the federal tax-sharing offer as he proposed Friday.

However, information from federal sources was that Mr. Bennett has started off a series of bilateral negotiations between the federal government and his, evidently aiming at more money for B.C.

Premier Bennett Not Satisfied; 'Pleas Ignored'

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—British Columbia stands to collect an estimated $53,765,000 in the fiscal year 1957-58, under the final federal tax-sharing proposals, put forward by Prime Minister St. Laurent at the federal-provincial conference here Friday.

The potential revenue represents an estimated increase of $1,095,000 over the amount that would go to the provincial treasury if the existing tax rental agreements formula was continued in operation in 1957-58. It represents a percentage increase over the 1952 formula of 2.1 per cent.

The percentage increases in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are, respectively, 14.9, 19.7 and 21.3.

OFFER FINAL

Prime Minister St. Laurent and Hon. Walter Harris, minister of finance, made it clear to nine provincial premiers that the federal government's offer was final. They rejected the provincial governments' submission that the provinces needed more income.

Grand total revenue available to all 10 provinces under the new tax-sharing formula is an estimated $640,085,000, an increase of $108,650,000 over the grand total that would be available to the provinces, including Quebec, if the existing tax rental agreements were operative for 1957-58.

The present tax rental agreements expire next year. Mr. Harris will bring down amendments to the legislation in his budget this month, effective Jan. 1, 1957, which will provide for the changes made necessary.

Harris Spells Out Why Can't Pay More

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Walter Harris bluntly told the provincial premiers' conference Friday the central government's tax-splitting proposals "go just as far as we can go at this time."

If any province needed more revenue, he said, it could go into double taxation, levying tolls beyond the federal deductions allowed.

The federal formula will provide the provinces with $640,000,000 in the first year of the five-year formula—$108,000,000 more than would have been available if there had been renewal of the terms of the current five-year tax rental pacts which expire next year.

The $640,000,000 would be made up of $152,000,000 in share-the-wealth equalization payments, $465,000,000 in direct tax-rental allowances and $23,000,000 through removal of the tax on insurance premiums from the definition of special corporation taxes.

GONE TO LIMIT

"We cannot at this time make any further material concessions that would adversely affect our revenues," Mr. Harris said in a statement released to the press at the end of the closed meeting.

Defence spending had been realized at about $1,800,000,000 in the last year or two. The government hoped it would not go higher but it could not be sure.

"Neither is it wholly within our control that they may not have to go up again quite sharply," he added.

More Snow Due Here On Sunday

Icy Roads Blamed For Two Accidents

Weather that has produced snow showers for the past week, and hazardous driving conditions Friday night, is expected to return Sunday night after a comparatively clear period tonight and Sunday.

Road conditions were blamed for two collisions Friday at the same spot on the Trans-Canada highway near Thetis Lake.

In the first accident at 7:50 p.m., a pickup truck driven by Lee Wing Poi, 710 Discovery, went out of control on the icy road surface and collided with a car driven by Allan Guiney, Langford.

Only casualty was John Morrison, 1110 Greenwood, passenger in Lee's truck, who was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for minor head injuries and bruises.

Shortly after the accident the car of Abel M. Bennett, 646 Dunedin, who had stopped at the accident scene, was bumped from behind by another car driven by Karl D. Smith, Glen Lake.

Damage to the four vehicles was estimated at $1,150.

Just before midnight a brief but heavy snowfall occurred that came close to blinding drivers, and forced traffic to crawl in low gear. Motorists reported finding their way extremely difficult in unlighted areas of the district, and sanding crews were put to work on known trouble spots.

They were still at work in the city today.

Relief from the chilly ocean air that has caused the recent unsettled weather came today with a burst of cold, dry air from the mainland.

"That will mean just a few clouds tonight and Sunday, with the slim chance of a bit of snow," said weatherman William Mackie, "but another Pacific storm will move in Sunday afternoon. It will give clouds and perhaps snow Sunday night or Monday morning."

He predicted a temperature range of from 30 degrees to 45 degrees Sunday, and northerly winds tonight, swinging to easterly Sunday.

Pope to Bless World Sunday

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius will bless the world Sunday in a highlight of the solemn celebration here of his 80th birthday and the 17th anniversary of his coronation.

The leader of the Roman Catholic Church will give his blessing from the loggia of St. Peter's basilica, high above assembled thousands in the big open square.

His blessing will come at the end of a solemn pontifical mass within the basilica. Church dignitaries and the representatives of countries throughout the world will honor the pontiff who was elected to St. Peter's throne March 2, 1939.

Dawley Broke Out 'To Help Family'

Case Adjourned to Next Week As Judge Ponders Decision

(Special to the Times)

NANAIMO—"When I heard I was to be tried as an habitual criminal it was enough to send a man crazy," Clifford Dawley told Justice H. W. McInnes in Assize Court here Friday afternoon. Dawley said the first intimation that he was to be tried as "an habitual" was when his wife, Rose, brought newspapers to him in Oakalla and when he heard a radio broadcast.

From the witness box Dawley was answering Mr. Justice McInnes' remark that "it was very foolish to escape custody."

Dawley, choked with emotion, said, "When my wife came to tell me, my first and foremost thought was for my family. That's why I escaped. I'm not sorry about it, I am proud about it. It was for the sole purpose of getting enough money to take care of my family." Dawley's words tumbled out in an impassioned torrent of explanation. "It wasn't with the idea of shooting up the town."

Court adjourned at 4:30 till next Thursday, March 15, at 2:30 p.m. Meanwhile Dawley's fate hangs in balance. He may be considered as an habitual criminal under the old section of the criminal code which has been amended to "preventive detention" which may be revised each third year, or the equivalent of a life term. Dawley has yet to be sentenced after being convicted Thursday on three counts of stealing an automobile, a truck, and being in possession of house breaking implements.

LAWYER BLOCKED
An attempt by defence lawyer Lawrence Hill, during the morning session, to block court proceedings of "preventive detention" against Dawley was overruled by Mr. Justice McInnes. Mr. Hill maintained that the application for the preventive proceedings should have been produced and filed before Dawley stood trial on the three charges for which he was convicted Thursday.

The Vancouver lawyer for defence said, "This is only a matter of sentence and the filing of preventive detention from the attorney-general's department should have been made before the trial."

Justice McInnes said, "I'll continue on Page 2"

BCE Protests To Gaglardi On Blasting

VANCOUVER (CP)—A high-ranking B.C. Electric official has protested "indiscriminate blasting" which he says is responsible for a power crisis in Squamish.

Vice-president W. C. Mainwaring today telephoned the protest to P. A. Gaglardi, provincial minister of highways.

Intermittent power blackouts have plagued the community for the last week.

"The people of Squamish are getting terrible service," Mr. Mainwaring said Friday. "I don't blame them for being fed up. The B.C. Electric is fed up too."

He said the blackouts are the fault of contractors blasting on the new Squamish-Horseshoe Bay highway.

"They have blasted whenever they want to, with no warning so we could get line crews out there to stand by and repair the damage," Mr. Mainwaring said.

His company had a specific promise, he said, that blasting would be confined to certain slack periods in the electrical load.

"Employees of Britannia Mines and the mining company as well have lost thousands of dollars as a result of these long interruptions," Mr. Mainwaring said.

The B.C. Electric has also lost thousands of dollars, and much goodwill.

Mid-East Turmoil Alarms Washington Stirs New UN Call

(Times News Service)

Infuriated mobs of anti-British rioters battled police and troops today in Cyprus and Greece protesting Britain's exile of Cyprus Nationalist leader, Archbishop Makarios.

In the Greek cities of Athens and Salonika, and on Cyprus thousands of rioters man-handled Britons, attacked armed cars with clubs and stones, and tore down signs bearing British names.

Rioters seriously damaged the British consulate at Heraklion, Crete.

The fast-spreading turmoil in the Mid-East now extends from Israel to Tunis, in North Africa, where mobs wrecked U.S. offices and houses.

The new violence along the shores of the Mediterranean followed the exiling by Britain of Archbishop Makarios, leader of the island's union-with-Greece. The Greek Orthodox churchman was flown to Mombasa, Kenya, Friday with his three top aides, under police escort.

Today he is on a Royal Navy frigate bound for the Seychelles, remote British island colony 600 miles out in the Indian ocean.

Latest Developments
Newest developments in the fast-moving Mid-East crisis:

1. Greece files bitter protest with United Nations against exile of Makarios.
2. Envoy of Jordan's King Hussein reaches Cairo with reply to Arab war council's offer of millions in cash designed to switch Jordan Legion into Arab world's "mutual front" against Israel.
3. Alarmed U.S. officials at Washington call for urgent United Nations' action to stop "dangerous developments" in Middle East and North Africa.

4. Both Israel and Egypt report new shooting incidents along the tense Arab-Israeli frontiers. Two reported killed in Jordanian attack on Jewish village.
5. At Halifax, new Jewish student demonstrations are feared as demonstrators load nine Harvard airplanes for Egypt.

6. British foreign secretary Selwyn Lloyd reaches Tehran on rush tour of Britain's allies in the Mid-East Baghdad pact.
7. At Paris, riot police and mobile guardsmen patrol streets following Algerian riots on eve of French Assembly vote on Premier Guy Mollet's demand for special powers to deal with rebels in North Africa.

The uproar in the Mid-East on the deporting of Archbishop Makarios broke a new political storm around Prime Minister Anthony Eden's government. Opposition MPs called the churchman's arrest and exile "folly . . . an act of madness."

Greece recalled its ambassador to London and complained to the United Nations. Political leaders in Greece called the action "astounding . . . brutal."

Ex-Cop Faces Charge Of Hiding Up Bank

WINNIPEG (CP)—A former suburban St. Boniface policeman, fired Feb. 7 because of conduct unbecoming an officer, was arrested Friday in connection with a bank holdup here Thursday and an attempted bank holdup Tuesday.

Inspector of Detectives James Mulholland said today that Anthony Jaworski, 27, will be charged Monday with robbing a branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank of $1,215 Thursday.

described the woman as "a strip dancer."

The theft complaint was laid by four members of the finance committee of the church. Fraser was steward of the building fund.

NEEDED FOR OPERATION
The court was told that Fraser told police he had received a letter from the woman saying she needed money for an operation. He sent some.

A second letter arrived asking for more money and Fraser sent it along. Fraser told police he got the cash from envelopes earmarked for the building fund. Police said he "appeared relieved on being arrested."

Mr. Maclean said his client had been left $21,000 in his father's will and this had also gone to the woman. The sister of the woman in question, Mr. Maclean said, received $5,600 of this money.

Mr. Maclean summed up: "It appears the glamor of a strip dancer has just stripped him of $24,000."

LIBERALS MAY DELAY
PROVINCIAL PARLEY
VANCOUVER (CP)—Possible postponement of the provincial Liberal convention, scheduled for here next month, will be discussed next weekend during an executive committee meeting.

"The convention date still stands," said provincial president Sydney J. Smith, "but it will be discussed by the executive."

Convention date is April 6 and 7.

Eggbert's Easter Story Starts Monday in Times

Eggbert is an egg-shaped little man carved out of wood. He is the central figure in an entertaining Easter cartoon story for youngsters which begins in The Times on Monday.

You'll want to follow how he and Cissy and Skitter plan the biggest Easter surprise of all for Cissy's grandfather.

Eggbert's story will appear daily until Easter weekend. Another newcomer to The Times comic section is the Smith family, which made its appearance this week and appears daily. This will be followed a week from now by Scamp, a lovable puppy created by Walt Disney.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Father, we thank Thee for Your guidance through the days that are past, that in the small and large tensions we have been kept from panic, and that tomorrow brings still another opportunity for the renewal of the strength you offer to all men through Jesus Christ. Amen.

Fantasy, Drama, Comedy Chosen

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Exactly one-fifth of the total number of plays which Mrs. Lily Harper, Schools Drama Festival adjudicator, found most commendable after watching 27 productions during the past week, were finally named to present the honor performance tonight at Victoria High School.

They are "The Singing Maid," produced by Lansdowne Junior High School, "Shock of His Life," by Oak Bay Junior High School and the trial scene from "St. Joan" by University School.

Only by choosing a fantasy, comedy and drama, was Mrs. Harper able to settle the question after polling her original 15 selections down to seven of the best.

Others of the seven were Brentwood's "The Master Cat," North Saanich High School's "Vigil," Oak Bay Junior High's "The Stolen Prince" and Victoria High's "My Last Duchess."

Also named were Glenlyon Preparatory School's "Clipper Ships," James Bay School's "The Spick and Span Stone," Central Junior High's "Poets of Ispahan," St. Margaret's "Slow Curtain," Mount Newton High's "The Royal Touch," Mount View High's "The Tea Pot on the Rocks," Royal Oak High's "A Sunny Morning," and Metchosin's "Alice in Wonderland."

On Friday night's program at Oak Bay Junior High School, a fantasy and two comedies proved highly entertaining.

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION?

By AB KENT and IRVING STRICKLAND

Do you agree with existing motor vehicle speed laws or do you think they should be changed?

Mrs. Wesley Reid, waitress, 3246 Irma: "From the standpoint of a pedestrian, I think the speed laws are all right if drivers would stick to the law, but some of them don't."

Margaret Davel, stenographer, 1033 Queens: "I would reduce them. I think they are too high now because modern cars go so fast. Thirty miles an hour is too fast in town. I think, and there needs to be stricter enforcement on the highways."

***
S. E. Mottishaw, steam engineer, 1624 Redfern: "I think the speed limit should be a little higher in the cities to get traffic through the lights quicker. The highway speed limit I think is adequate at the present, but there should be a minimum speed of 25 miles an hour and maximum of 35 mph in the cities."

Mottishaw Barrett
M. J. Barrett, trucking operator, 747 Discovery: "I'm satisfied with existing speed regulations, but I do think some of the by-laws regarding speed could be revised in Victoria. Some date from horse and buggy days. Highway laws are okay."

***
E. A. Rowlands, brewery worker, 4955 Cordova Bay: "They're just about right as they are for Vancouver Island if they were enforced. Fifty miles an hour is plenty on these highways."

Rowlands Allan
Jim Allan, brewery worker, 175 Sims: "The present laws are okay, but I'd like to see more rigid enforcement of speed regulations."

MORE RUST
Because of its higher oxygen content, snow water has a greater rusting action on iron than rain or river water.

There had been no drop of pace, the opening was most effective and the movement sure throughout. Ross Bryant was commended for his "full appreciation of comedy."

Vancouver Battles Outbreak of 'Flu

VANCOUVER (CP)—An outbreak of influenza, worse than average for this time of year, was reported by medical men here today.

Percy H. Wilson, director of the medical phone service, said an increase of 25 per cent in calls for doctors could be traced to the outbreak which has struck mostly children.

Doctors describe it as "a moderately severe type," not as severe as the 1918 epidemic but "seriously enough."

QUESNEL (CP)—The 80,000-gallon municipal water tank—full to the brim—burned down here Friday night despite a two-hour battle by firemen.

One family was evacuated in zero weather from their home downhill from the tank as firemen played streams of water on the structure and workmen turned on drain valves to release the 400 tons of water before the tank could collapse.

There was no immediate damage estimate but village commission chairman A. V. Fraser said plans were under way before the fire for a new water system to cost an estimated $720,000.

Water to this community 83 miles south of Prince George now is being pumped direct from the Quesnel River into mains.

ROSSLAND (CP)—Cecil Smith, Inland Natural Gas Co. representative, told Rossland Chamber of Commerce that the city may be supplied with natural gas by July, 1957.

L. Campbell of Manitoba and T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan want to see discussed at a future conference. Premier Leslie Frost suggested that the conference be reconvened next June, but federal government representatives were unenthusiastic. Prime Minister St. Laurent will be in London then, for the Commonwealth conference.

Finance Minister Harris in a statement to the conference said the final federal proposals went as far as Ottawa thought possible in providing grants and in reducing the extent to which the federal government was occupying certain fields. He pointed out that the total payments would be about 20 per cent more than the provinces were now receiving.

PREMIUM TAX
The final federal offer includes a provision that the British Columbia government may levy a 2 per cent insurance premium tax against insurance companies. This would bring into the B.C. coffers an estimated $2,060,000 which the federal government has included in its total estimated revenue for that province. Without that tax income B.C.'s revenue under the federal formula would be $51,705,000.

Premier Campbell of Manitoba while welcoming the changes the federal government had made in its original offer, emphasized that the increasing responsibilities of the provinces and expanded services would force some provincial governments into the sales tax field. Manitoba has no sales tax at present. Other provinces with sales taxes, such as British Columbia, might have to face raising that tax, he warned.

Manitoba was disappointed that so little attention had been paid to the question of the "actual financial requirements" faced by the provincial governments in the next few years, Premier Campbell said.

... DAWLEY Machinery Tax Law Faces New Legal Test

Cpl. E. Nuttall, RCMP Vancouver was then called to the witness stand where he said he told how he had served notice on the accused regarding his criminal record on February 13, 1956, at Oakalla.

The notice was read to the accused detailing a number of convictions for various criminal activities.

Lawyer Hill produced evidence during the court's afternoon session to try to prove that Dawley was gainfully employed for a considerable time and was not an habitual criminal. He told the court how Dawley had bought a Japanese fish packer for $800, had done commercial fishing, had done beachcombing and bought and sold small fish boats.

With the financial backing of the B.C. Packers Company he had bought a large boat. "Then," said Dawley, "I got into trouble and I sold it to the Mexican government." He said he received $15,000 for the boat, but after paying back the B.C. Packers' lien, insurance and taxes his share amounted to "about $4,500."

Mr. Justice McInnes said, "I should think you would have found it easy enough to get started in an honest way with that amount of money."

Later Dawley said he and his wife sold a rooming house she had run while he was serving time. "It was a 30-room boarding house and we sold it, but leased it for three years—as a rental back to us."

Mr. Hill produced income tax deduction slips to show that Dawley had been employed by various construction jobs in 1953, including the Harmac project at Nanaimo. He operated a cafe at Horseshoe Bay between March and September of 1953. "Then we bought a place on 16th Avenue in Vancouver and moved my family there."

Mr. Justice McInnes said, "And what does your family comprise of?"

Dawley replied, "My wife and eight-year-old daughter."

"After Dawley admitted association with many of the better known criminals around Vancouver, Mr. Justice McInnes said, "Do you know anyone who hasn't got a criminal record?" To which Dawley replied, "I have some very nice friends. I didn't associate with the others openly. I have my own family."

IN PARLIAMENT

Pearson Confident
No Danger of War
(From Times News Services)

External Affairs Minister Pearson believes neither Israel nor the Arab states is willing to allow the current tension in the Middle East to erupt into conflict.

"War would be disastrous to all concerned," he said Friday. "It would result in the mobilization of world opinion in the United Nations and elsewhere. In condemnation of the aggressor and in support of the victim of the aggression."

Mr. Pearson spoke after government rejection of "a final appeal" by the Progressive Conservatives to suspend shipment of the remaining 12 Harvard trainers of a 15-aircraft order Egypt placed with Canadian Car and Foundry Ltd. of Montreal.

The government approved the export permit last July and Trade Minister Howe reiterated Friday a previous announcement by Prime Minister St. Laurent that there would be no interference with the shipment. Nine of the Harvards were scheduled to be shipped out of Halifax today and the other three have already been cleared by customs.

Interest Rate Up on Housing Loans

Earlier in the sitting, Works Minister Winters announced the government has increased the maximum interest rate on housing loans guaranteed by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to 5½ per cent from 5½ effective Monday.

The new rate is aimed at keeping up the flow of mortgage money from the banks and insurance companies. Officials estimated the increase would mean an added charge of $1.40 a month on a 20-year, $10,000 mortgage.

During the Friday hour reserved for private members' bills, Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre) said provisions of the Election Act allowing only certain persons to cast their ballot at advance polls are discriminatory.

He sponsored a bill to widen advance poll facilities to all persons who would be absent from their home constituency on a federal general election day.

During discussion Knowles said he has heard the next federal general election may be either June 17 or June 24, 1957. He said he understands persons like Trade Minister Howe, "who likes to look into crystal balls," are already mentioning those dates as possibilities.

The last federal general election was Aug. 10, 1953.

During discussion Friday of fisheries department estimates British Columbia member Erhart Regier (CCF, Burnaby-Coquitlam) said the salmon wealth of the Fraser River could be protected against the threat of power dams by the federal government assuming responsibility for power development of the province's Columbia River.

Fish Vs Power Sparks Debate

Mr. Regier said that unless that action is taken B.C.'s Social Credit government must take action on Fraser River power which "most Canadians would have reason to regret."

Bent Leboe (SC, Cariboo) said that if residents of interior B.C. do not get power from Fraser River development they should not have to pay higher rates for thermal-generated power. The federal government should pay compensation to make up any difference.

George Hahn (SC, New Westminster) said the government should extend unemployment insurance coverage to all fishermen.

J. W. Murphy (PC-Lambton West) said that a joint Canadian-United States attack must be made on the predatory lamprey eel if the Great Lakes commercial fishing is to survive. He asked Fisheries Minister Sinclair to increase government expenditure in the lamprey fight from $1,000,000 to $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 a year.

"We must have more money, and we must gamble a little if we are to eliminate this curse," Murphy said. He added that if the fight doesn't start now, "we are going to crucify a $20,000,000 a year industry."

A. W. Stuart (L-Charlottetown) rapped opposition charges that the federal government had neglected the New Brunswick salmon industry.

"First of all," he said, "let us clean up our own province which grants fishing rights to foreign millionaires. I do not believe it is right for any provincial government to allow Crown lands to be exploited in the way they have in the Restigouche river."

"And then they come to the federal government for help. In fact, New Brunswick people have even been denied the right to fish in pools in their own river."

FOLLIES FORERUNNER

Talent Party Set By Junior Leaguers

You, too, can be in show business!

All you need is that common thing called talent.

Possessing this commodity, and the desire to help crippled children, you can join the high-steppin' gals of the chorus line in the Solarium Junior League's "Follies of '56."

The show will be held April 6 and 7 in the auditorium of Oak Bay Junior High, starting at 8:30 p.m., and running through color, cuties and capers until 11.

But first, the Junior League needs people willing to prance and perspire in the good cause. People who can sing, dance, do a one-finger handstand or wiggle with a "wow" are invited.

But it's well to check with Miss Patricia Gannon, at 4-8457, beforehand, just in case talents are duplicated. She's chairman of the entertainment end of things for the follies.

N.Y. DIRECTOR

So, a "talent party" will be held, starting at 8 p.m., in the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, March 19. Here a director from New York will cull the weeds from the flowers, talentwise, and what's left will be the show's cast.

Last year, first year of the league follies, $1,500 was raised for maintenance of Queen Alexandra Solarium for crippled tots.

It follows that the league hopes to jump this figure on the current run.

KING CROWNING

One of the highlights of the show will be crowning of a "king" the last night. Service clubs, gendarmes and the fire fighters of the area have been asked to submit candidates. They'll be chosen by vote, a unique and democratic way to elect a king!

Votes will sell at a penny each, and returns will go into the kitty for Solarium work.

Cast will number 150. Ticket sale arrangements, though one can get them now from any of the 50 junior league members, will be announced later.

District League Battle Resumes

City Merchants and Heaney's will continue their long-distance battle for mastery of the Victoria and District Football Association's first division Sunday.

Both teams are at present tied for top spot in the loop.

Merchants will take on Vic West at Central Park and Heaney's will meet Esquimalt at Heywood Ave. Park in an effort to break the deadlock, while Canadian Scottish meet Tillamook at Beacon Hill Park in a second division match.

All games start at 2.

GOLF POSTPONED

Sunday's scheduled medal golf round at the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club has been postponed because of unplayable conditions.

Petlock Jury Told Details Of Flight

MELVILLE, Sask. (BUP)—The arrest of John Petlock in Edmonton last Sept. 5 with almost $12,000 in his possession was described in Queen's bench court in Melville Friday.

Petlock is on trial for the Aug. 29, 1955, slaying of his brother Mike, whose body was found, along with the bodies of four other members of the Petlock family, on their Fenwood district farm.

Three Edmonton police officers testified Friday afternoon, giving a description of the arrest and subsequent murder charge being laid against Petlock.

The Crown called seven other witnesses to the stand who traced Petlock's path across the province as he fled from Fenwood where the five persons were shot to death.

Three taxi-drivers also testified. James Haslet of Regina told of taking John Petlock to Moose Jaw, describing him as being shabbily dressed. He said he let Petlock off at the CPR depot after 11 p.m. the night of Aug. 29.

James Keay, a Moose Jaw cabbie, related how he drove Petlock to Saskatoon leaving him at the CNR station in the hub city around two o'clock in the morning of Aug. 30.

R. L. Hagan, a Saskatoon taxi driver, told of taking Petlock to North Battleford that same day.

Another witness, Mrs. Alvina Peters, who operates a rooming house in Saskatoon, related that Petlock rented a room on Aug. 30 but added that he had left soon after paying two weeks' rent. She said he gave his name as Art Redcliffe.

Trustees' Group In B.C. Becomes Incorporated Body

British Columbia School Trustees' Association is now an incorporated body, its new status obtained by a special bill passed recently by the B.C. legislature.

Incorporation places the association on a more solid basis and gives it a more authoritative position. It makes possible the acquisition and disposal of property; and permits BCSTA to associate actively with other groups concerned with education.

Stated objectives under the Act are "to serve the British Columbia public school system by considering its problems, by making recommendations for its improvement, by co-operating with the department of education, by recommending changes in the Public Schools Act and any other acts which may affect the said system, and by co-operating with any other bodies having similar aims."

The pari-mutuel system of race-track betting, as distinct from book-makers, was first used in France.

There was no reference to any length of term for the proposed contract. West Vancouver drivers recently were granted a 12½-cents-an-hour boost spread over two years.

Their previous rate was $1.67½, the rate now paid BCE drivers.

Also asked is a premium payment for night runs, amounting to an extra five cents an hour during the period 6:30 p.m. to midnight, and 10 cents an hour from midnight to 6:30 a.m.

In addition, the union wants three weeks annual vacation after five years service and four weeks after 12 years service.

Company and employees presently share welfare contributions 50-50, providing $30 a week indemnity for 13 weeks. The union asks that the company assume the full responsibility for contributions and increase coverage to $40 for 26 weeks.

BCE Drivers Seek $2 Hour Wage Scale

Shorter Work Day Also Demanded

Demands for a 32½ cents an hour wage boost, shorter work day, increased welfare and other benefits for 2,400 B.C. Electric Co. bus drivers and non-operating employees in Victoria and the mainland were made Friday.

The wage hike, if granted, would bring hourly drivers' rates to $2. Over and above that figure, Street Railwaymen's Union (AFL), Division 101, seeks a non-operating differential for maintenance workers, dispatchers and others.

Union business agent Charles Stewart, Vancouver, said the request for shorter hours is revolutionary for the transit industry in North America.

The union, with drivers now working spread-over shifts up to 17 hours a day in summer rush periods, asks that all regular runs be completed within 11 hours, or 13 hours for extra work runs.

Coupled with that drivers seek an eight-hour workday guarantee.

About 250-300 Victoria drivers and non-operating employees are affected in negotiations, the balance in Vancouver and New Westminster.

Larry Jack, Vancouver, BCE director of industrial relations, said the company has been asked previously for the same pattern in demands, but this year's wage request is somewhat higher than usual.

There was no reference to any length of term for the proposed contract. West Vancouver drivers recently were granted a 12½-cents-an-hour boost spread over two years.

$65,000 IN TAXES

Assessment Hike Near $1 Million

Victoria city gross assessment increased $929,257 in the last year according to figures released Friday by city assessor Alfred Joyce.

He estimated an increase in the 1956 potential tax income of $65,000 if the millrate set last year remains stable.

Gross assessments rose from $138,172,206 to $139,101,463. Taxable assessments rose from $101,593,791 to $103,735,613. The latter includes assessments on the Empress Hotel and B.C. Electric poles and wires for which special tax agreements are in effect and full taxes are not collected.

WAGE BOOSTS COVERED?

Mr. Joyce estimates that one mill will produce $76,235 this year exclusive of school tax on machinery. The 1956 assessments show the land total assessed value at $24,822,391, improvements $105,285,292 and machinery $8,993,780.

It is also estimated that the potential tax increase this year will balance the increase in wages won by police, inside and outside staffs, although settlement with city firemen is still not reached.

Argos Sign Weiss

TORONTO (CP)—Dick Weiss, alternate captain of Mississippi, 1956 Cotton Bowl winners, has signed with Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football League, the club announced Friday.

Weiss, 23, a 222-pound tackle, was 17th draft choice of San Francisco 49ers.

Guess Who Pays the Bill

THE 1951 CENSUS PLACED British Columbia's population at 1,655,210. Two years later an informed estimate had raised it to 1,230,000. On the basis of a similar increase since 1953, the present total would stand at about 1,300,000.

The Provincial Government plans to spend $258,427,024 this year.

Spread over the total population that is nearly $200 per man, woman and child in British Columbia. It is nearly $800 per family of four. All this, of course, on top of federal and municipal taxes.

Mr. Bennett's program comes high.

A Thought for the Handicapped

DURING THIS WEEK—EDUCATION Week—hundreds of parents have visited classrooms in Greater Victoria schools. There they have met teachers, have seen a little more clearly the job that is being done to develop their youngsters, and, in many cases, have been able to discuss the particular problems their children face.

These have been the lucky, or the relatively lucky, parents.

Education Week has not drawn attention to the work that must be done for retarded children—those whose capacities can benefit only slightly, or not at all, from the formal schooling provided within the ordinary classrooms.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce, supporting the Greater Victoria Association for Retarded Children, draws attention now to the young people whose limited abilities deny them the benefits of conventional instruction.

In the Lower Vancouver Island area there are approximately 750 of these mentally handicapped young people. Some of them may absorb, though slowly, a certain amount of standard education until they reach the limits of their restricted capacities.

Others need special training entirely.

At present efforts are being made to determine which children are in these particular categories, how many there are of them, and what procedure may best be taken to assist them.

A few points should be made at this time. A number of retarded children can be trained, even if not educated, to a point where they can live productive and useful lives. To be useful, however, they must be accepted by the community in a friendly and sympathetic manner.

The simple call of humanity demands that society help relieve the heartache of parents whose children are mentally retarded. That sympathetic public understanding can be created through education.

To parents of normal children now enjoying a better insight into the efforts made on their own youngsters' behalf goes the suggestion that they think a little more deeply of the handicapped.

By present thought and later action to help these unfortunate ones, they can give some measure of thanks for the wholeness of their own.

The Face of Politics

THE OTTAWA JOURNAL IS right, we think, in saying that the political television programs arranged by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will provide a good show but not much public education.

Television time is to be distributed between the four political parties of Parliament, with a limit of ten minutes on each politician's appearance. How will it be possible, asks The Journal, for any speaker to discuss properly in ten minutes such complex subjects as the trans-Canada pipeline, or federal-provincial relations? Many other subjects could be added to the list, all urgently requiring public education, but no one can condense them in a brief TV "spot."

Nevertheless, if it cannot bring much factual information to the public, the CBC program can bring the personalities of our political leaders into the nation's homes. It can make sure that the chief personalities of all the parties are seen, even if the party treasuries are empty. Everyone is given a fair and free chance to make himself known even if he cannot hope to make his policy known.

But the problem of distributing TV time fairly between political candidates remains. In an election campaign it is to be expected that rich parties and candidates will buy from the private TV stations, as from the radio stations, time which poorer politicians cannot afford.

Most politicians seem to regard TV as a powerful, even perhaps a decisive weapon of political warfare. Few of the professionals will agree with The Journal that the public will quickly tire of this new medium, when it is applied to politics.

At first, says The Journal, a "curiosity audience" will want to see our statesmen "disport themselves under the klieg lights. But once that curiosity is satisfied, what then? Surely no serious person can believe that these appearances are going to hold audiences, and least of all that they will or can contribute anything to public political enlightenment?"

In short, the Ottawa paper thinks that TV will merely add a new horror to politics and make election campaigns less educative, duller, more synthetic and confusing than ever.

During the national election of 1957, the first in which TV will be widely used, we shall begin to see what it amounts to as an instrument of democracy.

Harbingers—But of What?

A WIND FROM THE WEST wrinkles the sunlit blue blanket of the Strait. At the foot of the path a red currant has broken its shards and spills, with small caution, the tassels of its bloom. In the border the first violets are lifting modestly from their leaf couch. The lawn gleams green again, reborn from winter's yellow-grey.

Nature's harbingers are proclaiming the approach of spring, hail, sleet, snow or another deluge of cold rain.

MR. ARNOLD WEBSTER STEPS DOWN

Retiring With Honor and Respect

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S public life is losing an important and gracious figure through the resignation of Arnold Webster.

He steps down from the position of Leader of the Opposition and legislative head of the CCF in this province after a relatively short time in office.

Mr. Webster says personal reasons have persuaded him to withdraw from politics—a withdrawal which will be complete when he finishes his current term as member for Vancouver East. Certainly the CCF executive has shown no dissatisfaction with his leadership—anything but. And to members of the Press Gallery he appeared to acquit himself more effectively than probably any other member of the Legislature in its last stormy session.

If there has been any criticism of Mr. Webster, it has been that he might not have been tough enough, sufficiently ruthless, for the job of Opposition Leader. That is a matter of opinion only. He has clearly shown the Attlee technique rather than the Aneurin Bevan bulldozing tactics in debate.

But if Arnold Webster preserved the hallmarks of a gentleman in the House, his criticism—well-phrased as it was—could be biting. When he described Attorney-General Robert Bonner's taunting of the Opposition as "cheap, cynical jibes," his words struck home. And nothing could have destroyed the effects of the Gagliardi-Bonner-Bennett political "carnival" early in the evening of the all-night sitting so completely as Mr. Webster's quiet, dignified statement that it left him ashamed of membership in the Legislature.

In private conversations for the last few weeks Mr. Webster has made no secret of his desire to quit politics and return to education. He was happy as a teacher and school principal and he expects to be happy again in the resumption of that career.

Personal reasons are given for his resignation. But the inescapable question arises: To what extent were his personal reasons colored by the position of his party within the province?

Arnold Webster is not the man to draw back from a job just because it is hard. Nor would he dodge a task even if it were distasteful. Has he—like Mr. Coldwell and other outstanding figures in the movement they espouse—found a certain futility in the way many socialists have tried to carry out their ideology?

Mr. Webster and Mr. Coldwell are moderates. They are realists, too, able to see that the CCF in its present form is not riding the wave of the future, but is left on the beach from a wave that

As Our Readers See It

ANSWER TO MR. LUFF

Replying to Mr. Luff, it is in order to ask why we need worry over the expense of buying out capitalists, if as he says, the capitalists alone pay taxes!

It is thought that what is called public ownership of public utilities, is but the beginning of a process culminating some time in the future in what Mr. Luff calls common ownership, or Socialism.

I know the word is abused, and now applied to almost anything from a hydro electric system to whatever communists choose to label Socialism.

Yes, reforms are given by the older parties, as economic necessity demands. The CCF grew up as part of that process of economic necessity, hence the need to head it off by reforms where it could be done. Labor needs a Pressure Group.

As for my friends of a CCF Inner Circle; it is news to me there is such a circle. Perhaps Mr. Luff will make good on his assertion? And as for being marooned high and dry, that is but wishful thinking, Mr. Luff. Time will tell.

PAY THEM MORE

Alderman Austin Curtis was on a business trip, Aldermen Mooney and Donald Smith arrived late to make a quorum. Alderman Dowell had to leave early. Alderman Edgewood had gone out to make a telephone call and left only three aldermen at their desks.

This is a report of a meeting of the City Council. My surprise of the matter is that the members of the City Council are able to give the time they do to the duties which fall upon them. Most of them are men with active business engagements and to expect them to give the time demanded is, in my opinion, to expect too much.

It has been suggested that the Council be increased to ten. In my opinion the present number is sufficient and there could even be a reduction.

A city alderman is required to give so much of his time that I consider that he should be paid a salary equal to that of the indepthy received by members of the Legislature and that the mayor should receive a salary equal to that of a provincial cabinet minister.

The city has been fortunate in attracting to public office those who are now serving and have served in the past. I do not suppose any better material would be available but if suitable salaries were provided others would consider themselves free to undertake the important duties that municipal office imposes and those that are serving at the present time would find it more convenient and practical to give fuller time to what is now required of them.

A smaller council and reasonable compensation would, I am sure, bring better results.

FLUORIDATION AND SMOKING

According to our newspaper reports our medical and dental associations are deeply concerned about the health of our children's teeth.

I sometimes wonder why they have become so desperately concerned all of a sudden about tooth decay. Why would our poor dentists do for a living if there should be no more tooth decay?

I can tell you of one way of avoiding a lot of this tooth trouble. Keep the youngsters away from the excessive amount of candy, chocolate bars, poppies, pop, ice cream and other sweets. We live across the road from a corner grocery store and can see the youngsters going in and out daily both going and coming from school with their hands full of sweets.

And further, Mr. Editor, can you tell me just how much water these children actually drink? And why, I ask, poison the water for say 75 per cent of the people for a questionable benefit for the other 25 per cent?

If our medical and dental associations are so deeply concerned about our health as reported, then I would advise that each member get a copy of Readers Digest of March 1st and read the article "Why Do Doctors Smoke?" condensed from an editorial in Southwestern Medicine.

Spring's First Gold

WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG

Path to School---And Some to Glory

By GUS SIVERTZ

I AM indebted to Archie Wills, who since the end of the First World War was an integral part of the Victoria Daily Times until retiring as managing editor, for informing me that the third Campbell brother in Central School was Len.

Archie asks if I remember peppy little Mr. Binns who was official head of the manual training. My goodness, how could we forget him. A favorite phrase of Mr. Binns' when we had committed some unforgivable crime like nicking a chisel, was: "I'll knock you down where you stand up at."

Of course he never did and I think none of us stood in very great fear of him.

Today I want to go back a bit so that we may look at the living stream of boys and girls that poured over the hard, gravelled grounds of ugly old Central School.

Standing as they did at the very top of Yates and Fort streets the Central School and what we called the new High School were a logical mecca to draw much of Victoria's youth 50 years ago on its stumbling climb to what may loosely be called its education.

Yates, View and Fort were the arteries from the west; Moss and Linden brought a much smaller contingent from the south because they tapped the "snoozy" Rockland Avenue area where nicer little boys and girls mainly attended private schools. Fort Street's "Dardanelles" was like a living penstock piping a lusty stream from Stanley, Elford, the Junction area and Oak Bay and Willows.

Our Spring Ridge flood poured down Fernwood Road and, in a lesser degree, along Camosun using what was called the "sandpit route."

Of course we had many friends among all groups that plodded to Central School but the strange fact remained that the Oak Bay boys, the Fairfield bunch, the various other district groups looked on all others as aliens and, indeed, alien enemies. When they met the two groups eyed one another warily like strange dogs stepping stiff-legged around each other.

THE OLD SPRING

Our starting point was the old spring which had supplied drinking water to Victoria from the days of very early settlement. It was a clear, loud bubbling natural spring which gave its name to the district and for many years fussy housewives would send their children to fill up jugs with spring water for drinking. It bubbled up on Spring Road a few feet off Pembroke.

The stop at the spring meant, of course, that we turned reluctant feet toward school with wet hair and shirts damp with squirted water.

Greater by far than the attraction of the spring was the almost irresistible pull of the huge sandpits that then occupied what comprises the whole site of present Victoria High School. They were deep, probably 30 to 35 feet, and for most of the year deep, muddy ponds acted like magnets on us.

However, rafting on the ponds must wait for after school. Now this winding path along the very rim of the sandpits—if not a royal road to learning—was our highway to such learning as our long-suffering teachers could hammer into our skulls.

So at Vining our little contingent was swelled by three or four Sprinklings and a couple of Dalzies.

The Sprinklings were a wonderful family of five boys and two girls; all thickset, sturdy, lusty and endowed by an enduring cheerfulness that nothing could dampen.

(Several years later I was to learn how genuine was the Sprinkling cheerfulness when one of them lost about a pound of meat from his well-padded seat to a piece of hot German shell casing near Vimy... and roared with laughter.)

At the next block, from a huge old house, came John, Spencer and Harry Dee. John was the older brother and didn't join us small fry. Harry today is Victoria High School's principal.

Parallel to our rambling route with all its delightful provocations the main stream flowed along Fernwood. And what a stream of joyous young humanity it was!

It would be quite impossible to name them all and if a great many are left out here it is only because this is not a school roster but just one boy's view of a small section of Victoria's life about 50 years ago.

BOSS AND VALDIE

From Pembroke way came Boss and Johnny Johnson (whom we called Valdie because his name is Valdemar). Boss even then had the personal charm that was to lead him to premiership of his province. John recently stepped down from more than two decades as an Oak Bay councillor.

From nearby came the Pineo boys—and girls. We always felt sorry for them because Mr. Pineo was a high school teacher and we naturally felt this was two strikes against the children.

Shaw Behnen, Freeman and Ed "Cotton" Brynjolfsson would be in the Fernwood Road contingent and farther along Tom and George Norris fell in step. Even then Tom's manner hinted at the bulldog ruggedness so characteristic of him as a brilliant member of the bar.

There were so many, so many in those happy streams of youth who were within a decade to march, side by side, up the muddy and historic roads of France and Flanders... and for so many it was the road to Gethsemane.

Canadian Themes in London

By GERARD FAY, London Editor of the Manchester Guardian

OF THE making of books there is no end.

I mentioned recently that the British Museum was bursting at the seams, but that is just one symptom of overproduction in the book trade.

Another is the great efforts made by booksellers to shift their unsold surplus every year. At one time this effort was entirely a matter of private enterprise on the part of the smart shopkeeper. But nowadays, of course, rationalization is demanded.

So for the last two weeks we have had, all over the country, a "national book sale." The result is that in cities, towns and villages—wherever there is a bookshop—great bargains are being picked up by book buyers. But this is merely a palliative. It will not affect the general prospects of the book business.

FLOOD PROPORTIONS

The river, or rather the flood of books from our publishers grows larger, faster, deeper, every year and almost all the streams contributing to it—I mean the different sorts of books—grow also. There are two exceptions among last year's record-breaking figure of 19,962 books published—fiction has been coming out at about ten books a week less, and children's books are 210 fewer over the year. Otherwise in all categories, especially in books about industry, trade, commerce, economics and education there is no sign that hunger is at all near satisfaction.

Last year's 20,000 books was 774 more than in 1954 and that year itself was a record.

Is it a healthy sign that more and more books are printed, sold, and borrowed? The trade paper of the booksellers is skeptical. It sees the unrestricted profusion of books as something that will please only those who think it a sign of vitality. It will strike others that the production of more titles than the public can absorb is the greatest impediment to prosperity. That is what the "bookseller" says.

TV AND BOOKS

The argument that television would kill reading took further punishment last year. The annual figures of withdrawals from lending libraries again leapt up—and there is evidence that to some extent television is responsible for the increased desire to read. The serialization of a novel, like "The Scarlet Pimpernel" drives many viewers (perhaps because they can't quite understand what goes on on the screen) to read the original.

Apart from these there are certainly many disenchanted television fans who can no longer bear to watch the programs and are reading more to pass the time. The publishers, at any rate, see some value in television. They are co-operating to supply a 15-minute program from the commercial station in London in which books will be reviewed, discussed, dramatized and—I presume—sold.

Nobody, however, has yet discovered exactly what it is that sells books. It can be proved that reviews in the two serious Sunday newspapers and in the two serious daily morning newspapers have a direct effect on morning sales. Otherwise the influence of the book reviewer is a very debatable one.

CANADIAN THEMES

It happens that two books being widely reviewed at the moment have a very direct Canadian interest. One is Tom Driberg's "Beaverbrook—A Study in Power and Frustration"; the other is R. W. Thompson's "Dieppe at Dawn." I have no doubt that these volumes are going to be very thoroughly dealt with

MARKED for READING

MAXIMUM
My view is that if you lose your status in society, that is the main punishment, and if you lose the chance of living with your womenfolk, and a normal life outside, that's the maximum punishment that any man should have.

—John Vidler, Governor of Maidstone Gaol.

COMPARISON

You all remember the old song "School Days", when "reading and writing and arithmetic were taught to the tune of the hickory stick"—and the modern parody "I was a boy with a low I.Q. You were a bit subnormal, too."

—Dr. J. M. Thomas, giving a musical comparison of the old and new education.

POPULAR AUDIENCE

A man admires a woman not for what she says, but for what she listens to.

—George Jean Nathan.

by Canadian reviewers but I should like to report that the Beaverbrook book has hit the reviewers here straight between the eyes and made them produce a volume of criticism which takes almost as long to read as the book itself.

The argument is still raging and I suppose will always rage about whether or not Beaverbrook was "a success." Certainly it is an odd sort of "failure" who becomes a multi-millionaire as a young man, who buys a derelict newspaper for £17,500 and builds it into a property worth £74 million; who contributes a lot to the making and breaking of two prime ministers, who runs a vital ministry during the war with great success, who is named seriously as a possible successor to Winston Churchill as wartime Prime Minister.

ELUSIVE POWER

That is one side of the picture. The other is that the direct political power which Beaverbrook seemed to hanker after always eluded him, and no matter how skillfully and studiously his papers campaigned—for instance, for Empire Free Trade, for no war in 1938, for a Second Front in 1942—the public buying the papers in ever-increasing millions read, marked, ferried and inwardly digested and took not the slightest notice. Therefore, although the "power" of Driberg's title is indisputable, so is the "frustration." However, one way and the other, it is a long time since I have seen any book so lavishly reviewed in terms of space.

The Dieppe book started off its career with at least a half-page review in the London "Evening Standard." The promise given to the book, if not the opinions expressed about it by Mr. Milton Shulman, the reviewer, is an example of one of the Beaverbrook techniques.

USING THE BEAVER

There is no more certain way of being prominently mentioned in the Beaverbrook newspapers than by writing or saying something about Lord Beaverbrook himself. But the next best thing is to write or say something about persons or institutions disapproved of by the Beaver.

The Dieppe book contains references to Lord Mountbatten who played a part in the planning of the raid. The Beaverbrook displeasure with Mountbatten is limitless. Hence I should say a half-page review in the "Evening Standard" for a book which in spite of its great merits will, I am sure, get much less space elsewhere.

The Habit of Crime

AS I write this the question as to whether or not Clifford Dawley is a habitual criminal is being considered by Mr. Justice McInnes in Nanaimo. Should Dawley be found not only to have the criminal record required, but to be "leading persistently a criminal life," he can be sentenced to preventive detention. This could mean that he will never see the outside of a prison again.

The law dealing with habitual criminals is relatively new in Canada. Its purpose is to remove from society the person who is a menace or a nuisance to the peace and order of the country, and since the results can be so serious to an individual, it is not often applied. The law is so stated and interpreted that a person must be a very anti-social character indeed before the question can ever arise as to whether his personal liberty must, for the good of the community, be put in danger of extinction. In our fortunate country, where the law regards personal liberty as the most fundamental right of the citizen, the courts are most reluctant to interfere with this right, and the law relating to habitual criminals is loaded with statutory safeguards and interpreted by the judges in the usual way, that is, in favor of personal freedom.

The criminal law is nothing but a compromise between morality and expediency and the habitual criminal legislation is a perfect illustration of the application of this axiom. It is doubtless most unmoral to deprive a person of his liberty, but it is also expedient, when that person persistently does not regard himself as bound by the laws which profect that liberty, to remove him from circulation. Not even the Sovereign is exempt from the operation of this principle, as Charles I and James II found.

Nor is the notion of preventive detention new. It is nothing but the modern equivalent of the old sentence of exile. Get the nuisance out of the way somehow, and since exile is obviously impossible in the modern world, prison is the only place for him.

It seems reasonable to suppose that the amount of undiscovered deliberate crime committed far exceeds that which keeps our magistrates busy. There must be competent workmen in the criminal world just as there are in the law-abiding, and such people go about their business in an efficient manner—undetected and unsuspected. There is only one thing which can trap the intelligent professional, and that is his own mistake; he makes very few.

The people who appear in the police court are mostly the inept members of the fraternity, and it is from this class that the habitual criminal is drawn. Having spent a long time being unsuccessful in the penny-ante league, he at last becomes so much of a nuisance that society puts him away where he can bother it no more. Look into the histories of the few Canadians who are qualified to bear this ignominious label. In not one case will you find a major offence, a real front page story. There is only a long depressing account of small holdups, minor thefts, stupid burglaries, false pretences, bad cheques, obvious forgeries and the like—all of it showing a failure to weigh the chances of success or failure. Often these sordid little crimes are committed for ridiculously small gains and sometimes for no gain at all.

It would seem that the only thing which distinguishes the habitual criminal from other men is nothing more than simple stupidity, coupled with an arrogant belief that he is able successfully to live outside the law.

Groping for New Policy

UNITED NATIONS—Slowly, rather hesitantly, the Western leaders are groping for a new policy to meet the new conditions of competitive co-existence. Among the Big Three, the British often take the lead, and their foreign secretary, Selwyn Lloyd, is urging that military pacts such as the South East Asian Treaty Organization, or SEATO, should emphasize economic assistance.

In a sense, he is reiterating what the minister of external affairs, Lester B. Pearson, has said at so many North Atlantic Organization meetings: that NATO should have an economic and political as well as military function. And he was saying this long before the struggle for the world changed so dramatically from what has become known here as Cold War I, the military cold war, to Cold War II, the economic cold war.

President Gronchi of Italy expressed much the same sentiments as Mr. Pearson's during his state visit to Canada. He believes that economic co-operation, rather than military pacts, is the main weapon to counter communism now. The extraordinarily harsh criticism which the new French foreign minister, Christian Pineau, levelled at his British and American colleagues recently is taken as yet another sign that Western policy generally is in ferment.

When the secretary general, Dag Hammarskjöld returned from his six-week tour of the Middle East and Far East, he spoke of the economic revolution in that part of the world. It was a part of his press conference which, for some strange reason, was almost completely ignored in the newspapers.

Mr. Hammarskjöld said that the United Nations was doing what it could, with the modest means at its disposal, to assist governments in the area and he added that its contribution was "even more inadequate than I had realized before." Then, he had this significant remark to make: "I do feel strongly that, for us in the United Nations and for all governments with a feeling for the future of the world, it is an imperative challenge to live up to the economic needs of the vast majority of mankind."

Of course, the Soviets have a "feeling for the future of the world," they want it communized, and they are offering machinery, equipment and technical experts to the underdeveloped countries. To meet this competition, Mr. Lloyd suggests that SEATO and the other pacts should go in for economic assistance.

Mr. Pearson has said that NATO cannot live on fear alone, and Mr. Lloyd apparently considers this to be true of SEATO and METO, the Baghdad Pact, especially when so many people are being lulled into believing that there is no fear by the Communists. With the atomic stalemate, the Canadian minister says "we should be emphasizing the non-military potentialities of the organization during the period of non-military conflict."

All of these pacts are sanctioned by the UN Charter as regional arrangements, and they must have an Article 2 allowing for economic and cultural co-operation as NATO has. However, despite Mr. Pearson's efforts, Article 2 has not become operative.

WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS—Temperature at Prince George fell to 26 below this morning as an Arctic airmass tightened its grip on the interior. Some of this cold air spilled out on the coast too and Prince Rupert reported a low of 23. Southern valleys will feel its bite Sunday morning. Sunny skies are looked for in most regions today although some cloudiness will persist. Sunday will see clouds from a Pacific disturbance blanket most of the coast with rain expected in northern sections. However, southern parts will see some sunshine in the morning and the southern interior will be sunny most of the day.

HISTORY OF HANGING

Little Risk In Reprieves

In view of the public interest in the recent vote to abolish the death penalty in Britain, and the imminence of the report of the Canadian committee on capital punishment, which will be brought down in the Commons during this session, the Victoria Daily Times is publishing a series of articles by noted writer Arthur Koestler. They are condensed from his forthcoming book, "Reflections on Hanging."

By ARTHUR KOESTLER

These "monsters" (mass murderers), who so much agitate public imagination, form such a small percentage of killers as to be almost negligible as a social problem. Moreover, they do not affect the question we are discussing—life imprisonment as an alternative to the death penalty—because they do not belong to prison but to an institution.

The practical consequences of abolition would in fact hardly be felt or noticed by the country. The cessation of the death penalty would simply mean that on an average 13 persons per year would be added to the British prison population.

The 13 men and women who are annually hanged with the nation's tacit consent, are by no means "monsters" and "irretrievables." Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Thompson, the boy Bentley, all of whom were hanged, were no more "irretrievable" than Mace-Bearer Martin, who was spared. The late Sir Alexander Paterson, director of convict prisons, had this to say about the 13 whom we annually hang: "If the estimate of (the condemned person's) character, formed by those who have to look after him for several weeks while awaiting sentence could be taken into account by those who have to advise the secretary of state, a considerable number might be respited."

Conduct Determines Term's Length

We now come to the argument that a quick death is less cruel than a long prison sentence. It comes from two categories of people—those who rationalize, their sadistic tendencies by a pious "break his neck for his own good," and from genuine humanitarians who, ignorant of conditions in modern prisons, base their apprehensions on vague notions of gaol-life in Dickensian days.

The person best qualified to judge whether prison is preferable to execution is evidently the prisoner himself. Sir Basil Thomson wrote that "no governor has ever yet met a condemned prisoner who would refuse a reprieve or who did not ardently long for one." Calvert quotes another ex-prisoner official as stating "that of the 30 reprieved murderers whom, in the course of his duties, he had come to know intimately, there was not one but had testified, after years of imprisonment, to his thankfulness for the respite." Yet at that time prison routine was much grimmer and more depressing than nowadays.

20 Murderers in 'Open Prisons'

Long-term prisoners in England are divided into two classes, "star" and "ordinary." The star class comprises all first offenders unless they are considered a bad influence, but also prisoners with previous convictions if they are supposed to become a good influence; there is no rigid rule.

In August, 1952, the prison population included, as previously mentioned, 91 reprieved murderers, 82 of whom were in the star class. The men of the star class were serving their term partly at Wakefield, partly at the new "open prison" at Leyhill; the women, either at Aylesbury or at the "open prison" at Askham Grange. Others were undergoing hospital treatment, or waiting for their transfer from local prisons.

The "open prisons" are a recent experiment, dating back to 1946. There are no walls around the prison, no bars on the windows, no locks on the doors, and no guards are posted. Leyhill houses on the average 250 to 300 prisoners, of which, in 1952, 20 prisoners were reprieved murderers. Escape is, of course, child's play—but it is not in the interests of the type of prisoner sent to an "open prison."

Let the great majority of reprieved murderers serve part of their sentences—often a large part—in "open prison." The major part of the day—seven to eight hours—is spent by the prisoner population much in the same manner as by the ordinary free population: on work. "Work" for the prisoner under the old regime meant the treadmill, the shot drill, and the crank, of which the deliberate intention was to be irksome, fatiguing and because totally unproductive—degrading.

Today "work" means nearly anything in the prisoner's own trade or a trade learnt in prison: from farming and market gardening to printing and bookbinding. In women's prisons, the main trades are needlework, dressmaking, knitting, cleaning, painting, gardening and laundering.

All prisons in which long sentences are served have vocational courses for those prisoners who had no skill or trade, or who wish to acquire a new one. They take the form of a six months' course of both practical and theoretical instruction based on a ministry of labor syllabus.

The pay is very small. It normally does not exceed four shillings a week. The idea behind this seems to be that the surplus value of the prisoner's work should pay for his upkeep. On the continent the rates of pay are generally much higher: in Belgium, prisoners earn up to 30 shillings, in Denmark up to two pounds a week, half of which can be spent in prison, the other half kept until release. However that may be, the system answers the old idiotic argument that abolition of the death penalty would increase the taxpayer's burden.

Outside working hours there is a large and growing program for various activities both in the field of education and entertainment. There are lectures, theatre performances, film shows and concerts. In some prisons the prisoners have their own orchestras and dramatic societies. All have libraries, but prisoners may also receive books and periodicals from outside and subscribe to correspondence courses for any trade or hobby. Games are played at weekends, and physical training is given to younger prisoners. It can hardly be said that detention under these conditions is "a doom far worse than death," as the Lord Chancellor of the day, Lord Jowitt, and the previous Lord Chancellor, Viscount Simon, said in the House of Lords debate in 1948.

Economic Probe Ends, Report in Six Months

OTTAWA (CP)—The royal commission on Canada's economic prospects in the next 25 years concluded its public hearings Friday. It will probably be another six or seven months before it makes its report to the government.

The commission heard 268 briefs in 50 public sittings. Another 39 submissions not heard publicly have been made.

The commission travelled some 21,000 miles gathering information and predictions of Canada's economic future from business, labor and agricultural organizations, professional associations of every type, independent companies and governments.

It held hearings in every provincial capital and Ottawa, Calgary, Vancouver and Montreal. It also visited the Yukon and Northwest Territories to begin its work last August.

The last brief presented at public hearings, No. 268, was submitted by the 2,000-member Canadian Association of University Teachers.

NEED BETTER PAY

It estimated that university student enrollment will about double to 129,000 by 1965 and treble by 1972 and said teachers will have to be better paid if universities want to retain and increase competent staffs to take care of this influx.

The brief said the real income of university teachers is no better than what it was in the 1930s but suggested no salary scale it would like to see put into effect.

Chief commissioner Walter Gordon said university salaries should be increased and added that the association has set its sights too low.

Concrete Facts

Q—What treatment should be given concrete block basement walls to make them proof against moisture?

One such treatment is apply cement plaster not less than one-half inch thick in two-coats to the outside of the wall. Start it just below ground line and continue down the wall and across the ledge formed by the projection of the footing. In wet soils, an additional coat of asphalt is advised. In dense soils, such as clay or shale, a drain tile should be laid around the footing.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Plant Perennials On Five-Year Plan

When you mentally pick to pieces a perennial border you begin to wonder when someone is going to take action and revolutionize this part of the garden.

The very name is a misnomer. There is no semblance of the original plan five or six years after planting. Wandering roots and seedlings will have taken over at will and all the gardener can do is to remake the whole area.

When it becomes necessary to do this major repair we have to decide the best time of year.

My preference would be for the autumn, possibly September and into early October, but there are so many plants in borders which are then at their best it would be during spring. Here again we are faced with early spring flowering plants which should not be disturbed or their beauty will be lost for the season. Spring is a wet time with us and if we wait for suitable days and soil conditions the plants will be too far advanced to move.

YEAR-ROUND BLOOM

We gardeners, of course, are to blame for this state of affairs. We strive for flowers in the border every day from spring until fall, and we persist in spreading each kind of plant from end to end of the border in order to have some color over the entire area all through the season.

Thus we make a lot of work for ourselves in the designing and original planting and pave the way for problems when renovation has to be done.

NOT FOREVER

There is a fifty foot perennial border to be remade in our front garden which has made me perennial border conscious, and since no revolution appears imminent, here are my thoughts on the matter:

1. Discard this word perennial and call it a five-year border. That should dispel the illusion it is there forever and induce us to remake the border before the plants run out and the area becomes a wilderness.
2. Make a base planting over the entire area of evergreen plants which will make the border attractive and pleasing during off seasons of flowering and over winter.
3. Knowing that a mass of color in one spot is more effective than a few blossoms scattered here and there over a large area, plant spring flowering subject, in groups between the evergreens, summer flowering in other groups, and the same with fall flowering plants. Any group can then be dug and replanted as needed and at a time best suited to the plants concerned.

It looks good on paper. In five years time I may be able to tell if such a plan is workable.

Ammonia Takes Varied Roles In Daily Life

The fragile heroines of old, reputed to have fainted at the slightest provocation, were frequently brought around with a whiff of "smelling salts"—sometimes called spirits of ammonia.

However, one doesn't have to be in the habit of swooning to recognize the pungent odor of ammonia, since it is one of the most common chemicals that we know. In fact, ammonia, alone or in its several compound forms, affects almost everything we use.

Ammonia is by no means a modern discovery. In the middle ages it was obtained by distilling the horns and hooves of stags—hence its ancient name of "hartshorn." Today, ammonia is mostly synthetic and is usually made from natural gas or fuel oil.

One hundred thousand tons of ammonia are produced in Canada each year, to be used in products that range from wood pulp to perfume. Housewives keep liquid "household ammonia" on hand as a cleaning agent, while industries use this same chemical in large refrigeration systems. Other industrial uses are in the making of oil, petroleum, explosives, textiles and dyes.

However, it is in agriculture that ammonia has its most important use. It is a major component of many agricultural fertilizers and is often applied directly to the soil. We owe more than we realize to this versatile chemical that helps produce much of the food we eat.

WEEK'S WORK

BY JACK BEASTALL

Set out asparagus plants in deeply dug, well prepared beds. Divide and replant mint.

Sow tomato seed indoors for plants to set out in May; sow also cucumber, melon for growing in frames or cloches.

Sow indoors a few seed of perennial herbs: sage, thyme, rosemary.

Prick out snails, lobelia and other early sown annuals.

Sow indoors following annuals: schizanthus (butterfly flower), nicotiana, 10-week stock, Shirley poppy, nemesis.

Rake lawn to remove winter debris, and to aerate the surface.

Water frequently any pot plants which have flower spikes showing, such as amaryllis, clivia, calla, astilbe. Feed every two weeks with a balanced plant food.

Cut back the common weeping willow. Hard pruning is needed to control growth. Never plant this tree near drain tiles.

Passiflora caerulea, passion flower vine, should have side growths spur pruned to produce flowering shoots.

The wood stove at the cottage is often difficult to light but coal oil or gasoline never be poured into the stove to make it burn. Dip thin sticks into coal-oil and include them in the kindling and save bits of wax candle and wax paper for days when the fire is stubborn but do not use dangerous liquid fuels which are not controllable.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Tomatoes Need Moisture To Keep Healthy Skins

Q. Last year I was able to in a new garden now in the making ripen outdoors the bush tomato. Is this typical of Victor, but several of the fruits split their skins. Is this typical of Victor?

A. Splitting of skins is common to all tomatoes and is caused through allowing the plants to become rather dry and then watering liberally (or suffering a heavy rain). Dryness at the roots causes the skins to toughen and start maturing but growth resumes after watering, and the skin, being unable to expand, has to split. Use plenty of compost in the soil to maintain a steady moisture supply.

Q. When should fruit trees, roses and perennials be planted July.

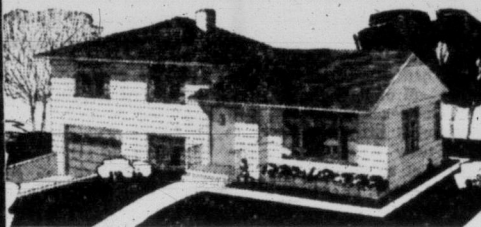

A. Fruit trees and roses are usually planted by the end of February, perennials during March and April. Weather and soil conditions must be considered but the work should be completed as near these dates as possible.

Q. Is it now too late to plant the poppy anemone to flower in late spring?

A. Anemone coronaria, the poppy anemone, may be planted now. Flowers can be expected about late May. Keep the plants well fed and watered and flowering should continue until mid-July.

Social Credit Evolutionary Says Chan

By BARBARA SANSON
Times College Correspondent

Public Works Minister W. N. Chan told Victoria College students Wednesday that "Social Credit is not revolutionary but evolutionary."

He was first in a proposed series of speakers representing B.C.'s political parties who will speak at the college this term. Mr. Chan outlined the economic theories of his party, backing his statements with statistics.

"Social Credit brings sensible logic into monetary matters and free enterprise economy," said the minister.

Lively discussion resulted, many students asking the minister to enlarge on his theories.

COLWOOD — Women's auxiliary to Colwood Fire Department this week donated an inhalator to the department.

Present officers are Mrs. Mary Johnson, president; Mrs. Dorcas Emery, Mrs. Pat Darley, Mrs. Elsie Warrington and Mrs. Simone Belky.

Sites have been obtained in both areas and Pastors Lloyd Gregory and Norman Scott are proceeding with building plans.

The new structure at Courtenay will be designed to serve the Cumberland and Comox area.

Since Dr. J. B. Rowell organized Central Baptist Church in Victoria 28 years ago, new churches have been established throughout the island.

The public is invited to meet several of the island pastors at the special service in Central Baptist next Thursday at 7.30 p.m.

MONTHLY

Each month the pastors meet in one of their churches, holding an afternoon session of prayer and spiritual fellowship, followed by an evening meeting to which the public is invited.

Pastors attending will be Pastors William Clayton, Parksville and Comox; W. O. McKee, Duncan; H. Johnson, Cobble Hill; T. Westcott, Brentwood Bay and Sidney; and J. A. Stewart, Langford and Luxton.

The Thursday meeting will take the form of an evangelistic service with Pastor Clayton giving the main message.

Doctor Raps Hospital Overcrowding

NANAIMO — Nanaimo General Hospital was criticized harshly Thursday by Dr. E. W. Best, medical director of the Central Vancouver Island Board of Health, at the board's annual meeting.

The hospital has "exceptionally good organization," he said, but claimed it is impossible to improve its facilities for controlling infectious diseases.

He said also that plumbing in the building was "grossly inadequate" and that the hospital is "grossly overcrowded."

Vancouver Island Viewpoint

From Up-Island Newspaper Editorial Columns

A Basis for Negotiations

THE LADYSMITH CHRONICLE—The proposal of the Salthair Waterworks District, which is published in full in this issue of The Chronicle, should set a new high in inter-community relations. It is not only a simple, straightforward presentation of the Salthair case, it is also eminently fair and reasonable. With this proposal as a basis, there should be no reason why an agreement can not be worked out which will serve the interests of both Ladysmith and Salthair.

While no comment was made by city council members when the proposal was first read to them last week, it was clearly evident that their first reaction was favorable. The council is already on record as being willing to assist in obtaining a water service for Salthair if some means could be worked out to provide it without jeopardizing the supply of the Ladysmith Water District.

It is quite possible that, as a result of the advice the council receives and as a result of the thorough study and investigation which council members plan to make themselves, the details of the proposal may be altered. Notwithstanding this likely possibility, the basis for fruitful negotiations has been established by the attitude of the Salthair board as expressed in their proposal.

Our Weather IS Better

PARKSVILLE-QUALICUM BEACH PROGRESS—While it would be ridiculous to claim that we have not endured some mighty chilly weather in the Parksville-Qualicum Beach district during the past few months, the fact remains that we have been more fortunate than many areas.

Although the weatherman gave us sharp frosts which killed off many strawberry plants and rose bushes, there was so little snow that even the poets in this district remained uninspired. Snow rhymes with scores of words due to the hearts of poets, yet they saw so little of that substance during the past winter that not one poem beginning "Snow, snow, beautiful snow" was received by The Progress.

We hope that this omission does not indicate that our local poets have sought refuge in California.

Assessors and Market Values

THE COWICHAN LEADER—The move in B.C. toward assessment of land and improvements for taxation purposes, a worthwhile objective, is one the public needs to study a little more closely.

The recent case of the appeal on the former Canadian Legion building in Duncan exposed assessment figures far higher than the market value of the property. Similar appeals have been heard here and elsewhere.

These appeals have one thing in common, the high assessment figure compared to the value placed upon the properties by the owners. From the trend to higher assessments—the public can infer that market value is no longer a major factor.

The new order seems to be that replacement costs rather than market value form the overriding consideration for the assessor.

Bing Crosby Stars in 6.30 Musical Tonight on C-4

Olivier in 3-Hour 'Richard III' Movie Sunday at 2.30

Two spectacular offerings mark the weekend viewing, with a third program being of special interest to Victorians and Vancouver Islanders.

Tonight at 6.30 Channels 11 and 12 bring us Ford Star Jubilee's "High Tor," starring Bing Crosby, Nancy Olson and Julie Andrews. The 90-minute spectacular is a filmed musical version of Maxwell Anderson's Broadway play of 1937, about a man in love with a girl and his mountain, High Tor.

The second spectacular of the weekend takes place Sunday, at 2.30, when Channel 4 presents the three-hour movie, "Richard III," starring Sir Laurence Olivier and Claire Bloom. This, of course, is about the villainous Duke of Gloucester who, through trickery and knavery, fights his way to the throne of 15th-century England. This is the film's debut on this continent. Others in the cast include John Gielgud, Sir Ralph Richardson and Sir Cedric Hardwicke.

Victorians and Islanders will be interested to learn that at 5, Sunday, Channel 2's Perspective will deal with the "Elder Citizens" of Salt Spring Island.

SATURDAY HIGHLIGHTS

Industrials Set New Record, Utilities Exceed 1931 High

By ELMER C. WALZER
UP Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks registered one of their best gains of the year during the past week with industrials setting a record high, utilities a new high since April 13, 1931, and rails since Dec. '6.

Sales almost duplicated those of a week ago. The total rose a mere 138 shares to 74,176,708 shares for the five-day period, the most since Sept. 30. The daily average was 2,835,341 shares, against 2,835,314 in the previous week.

WEEKEND RALLY

And this showing despite the listings of Ford Motor Co. shares on Wednesday. Ford provided a turnover of 49,800 shares on the week. Its first sale on the stock exchange was at 62. Later it fell to 61½ and rallied the end of the week at 63.

The industrial average closed at 497.84, up 9.00 points and within less than three points of the magical 500-mark. There was a better gain in the week ended Feb. 17 when the average rose 9.39 points and again on Feb. 3 when the weekly rise was 10.88 points, best since Nov. 5, 1955.

Rails closed the week at 165.99, up 3.20 points on the week and utilities 67.06, up 1.16 points.

The market climate favored the bulls—better earnings statements, including several "reversals," a pickup in automobile production following improved sales for the industry; favorable building reports; a turn of higher dividends, and several stock splits.

A total of 1,421 issues appeared on the tape, most since Feb. 3. Of that number 916 advanced, most since Feb. 24, 355 declined and 150 held unchanged.

There were 175 new highs set for 1955-1956, the most since last Sept. 23 week when 176 made new 1955 highs. There were only 14 new lows, fewest in more than a year.

The gains extended to more than 10 points in some instances. The metal issues made the best showing. Steels were higher but in small amounts because their rise began late in the week. The same applied to the autos.

HIGH PRICES

Glass stocks were outstanding performers with gains running to 18½ points in Owens Corning Fiberglas. In the aluminum group, Aluminum Ltd. rose 9½ points. Kennecott gained 8½ to top the coppers. Newmont Mining, a company holding mining stock, gained 9½ points.

Demand for the coppers reflected high prices for the metal and several highly favorable earnings reports from the industry.

Zenith ran up 13 points in the electronics; American up 8 in the sugars; Babcock and Wilcox, up 9 in the group interested in the atom; West Virginia Pulp and Paper, up 9½ in the papers.

Chrysler and Du Pont gained more than 4 in their respective groups to help lift the industrial average. The rails had advances running to several points. Utilities were strong.

Special issues added 5 points or more and helped enliven the market throughout the week.

Ss. Malaya Takes on Big Load

A fast, three-way, loading operation at Victoria Elevator Ltd., Ogden Point, Friday enabled Ss. Malaya to take on 2,665 tons of wheat, 250,000 feet of lumber and 26 tons of plywood between 8 a.m. and 9 p.m.

The East Asiatic passenger-cargo combination is the second ship to take advantage of the elevator's versatile loading facilities since they were improved at a cost of $20,000.

It is now possible to lift lumber and load wheat simultaneously, thus cutting down on ships' turn-around time and avoiding port to port and berth to berth shifting.

C. C. Head, manager of Victoria Elevators, hopes to attract more shipping to this port through the improved facilities. East Asiatic Co. officials express themselves as very pleased with the operation here, and plan to divert more of their mixed cargo vessels here for loading.

Next ship due here for lumber and wheat is Ventura, due March 27.

Canada Exports Wheat to Russia

OTTAWA (UP)—Iron curtain countries will take delivery of at least 40,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat between now and the end of July, federal grain authorities estimated today.

The Communist purchases, plus expected orders from non-Communist European countries whose winter wheat crops failed, are expected to boost Canada's 1955-56 crop year exports to more than 300,000,000 bushels.

In the last crop year the country exported 250,000,000 bushels. This year's expected improvement will represent almost entirely the success of government trade officials and salesmen for the Canadian Wheat Board in negotiating markets in the Communist world.

Newsprint Chief Off to Europe

NEW YORK (AP)—Newsprint supplies will continue "fairly tight for some time yet," R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, said here.

Interviewed aboard the liner United States before sailing for Europe, Fowler said the current newsprint shortage could be traced to general prosperity, stepped-up advertising and increased literacy throughout the world.

"There's no trace of its loosening up, although great added capacity is being built up in the United States and Canada," he asserted.

Saanich Officer Heads Lake Swim Committee

Elk Lake-Beaver Lake Swim Committee named Constable Robin Stewart of the Saanich police department as chairman at its first meeting of 1956 and laid plans for a second annual Labor Day swim contest for teenagers.

It is tentatively planned to include three separate swimming races in the program this year. In 1955 43 youngsters covered the two-mile course between Elk and Beaver Lake beaches.

The event drew 2,000 spectators. Officials say it is hoped to increase the crowd this year by adding to entertainment programs which occupied the waters during the long swim, and continued until late in the evening.

Further planning will take place at next meeting of the committee, March 28.

Other officers appointed at the recent meeting include vice-chairman Wilfred Sadler, secretary Iola Gordon and a safety committee comprised of several Saanich police officers, life guard Bob Muir and Ove Witt, former trainer for straits swimmer Bert Thomas.

NEWELL MORRISON

BUSINESS DIARY

Prospecting Now Requires Book Learning

What vision does the word "prospector" conjure up? A desert rat riding a scraggy donkey? A bearded sourdough with a pick and shovel?

If so, it is wrong. The first never was seen in Canada and the second died with the depression years.

Delegates attending the annual convention of the Prospectors' and Developers' Association in Toronto described a prospector as a fairly well-educated man who carries the most modern equipment and is backed by as much as $5,000 a year.

Unlike his predecessors, he has few financial worries unless he causes them himself. In his pack is every requisite down to insect repellent.

Once a year the modern prospector probably attends a prospector's convention to hear technical papers on minerals—where they are and how they are reached.

The papers are so technical the old-time prospector wouldn't have understood them.

Stock prices on the Toronto, Montreal and New York exchanges snowballed ahead this week for the strongest advance of the year.

A feature of the Canadian markets was a week-long drive by western oils. At Toronto, an index gain of 14.25 points was one of the best on record. At 115.62, the oils were at a four-year peak—about 12 points behind their all-time high of April 1952.

The growing strength of western oils is attributed to accelerated exploitation and development programs, consolidation of interests and expanding markets.

In addition there were rumors that U.S. crude oil may be dearer and that a Canadian price boost will follow.

New York looks like a huge toy store this week with more than 1,400 manufacturers exhibiting the latest playthings to thousands of buyers in private showrooms and hotels.

This is the 33rd American Toy Fair, sponsored by the Toy Manufacturers of the U.S.A. Inc. It is usually a buying event, although considerable sampling is done.

Most volume purchasers—the chain outlets and major department stores—cover their requirements for shorter periods and re-enter the market later with Christmas orders.

But many smaller retailers cover their needs for the year as well. The concentration of producers gives them a chance to see all lines together.

Canadian Industries Ltd. 10 cents payable April 30 record March 29, 2d March 27.

Toronto-Dominion Bank, 32½ cents, payable May 1; record March 29, 2d March 27.

Burlington Steel, 25 cents plus 50¢ extra, payable April 1; record March 16, 2d March 14.

Dome Mines, 17½ cents, payable April 30, record March 29, 2d March 28.

Robert D. Schultz announces the formation of Robert Schultz & Company Limited, to succeed the Schultz Timber Company Limited, in the factoring of logs, sawmills, timber, shingles and shakes, and other Forest Products.

Mr. Schultz has been associated with the Forest Industry in British Columbia for eleven years. He is a graduate of the College of Forestry, University of Washington.

Associated with Mr. Schultz are Miss Nancy Anzures, Secretary, and Accountant, and Mr. L. W. M. Cote, Manager, Log Sales Department.

Officers of the Company continue at 425 Howe Street, Vancouver 1, B.C.

Minister's Son Crazy on Cars

By NORMAN CRIBBENS, Times Business Editor

Ever since he was a kid Newell Morrison has been crazy on cars. Which may be one good reason why he is taking over Wilson Motors in Victoria, one of the biggest auto sales and service enterprises on Vancouver Island.

But he is following no family trend in becoming a motor magnate. His father, Rev. Wesley R. Morrison, is a famous United Church missionary—still active at 77. His sister, Dr. Enid Morrison, is a medical missionary in Northern Rhodesia. His eldest brother, Dr. Adam Morrison, is a recognized physicist in Boston, Mass.

Newell Morrison broke into the auto trade with Wilson's as a junior salesman in 1949. But long before he entered high school in Regina, he was tinkering with motor bikes and jalopies. And at 15 he was riding around in his very own Model A Ford.

It never occurred to me that I would ever go into anything but the auto trade," he said. "But the war intervened and at 18 I joined the RCAF and qualified as a pilot."

"After the war I landed a job with an X-ray manufacturing company in Montreal. They sent me out to Vancouver in 1947 and from there I went on to UBC to study for a Bachelor of Commerce degree."

"Having got that, I came to Victoria and called on Mr. Wilson for a chat about the auto trade. He gave me a start and most of what I've learned about the business I have learned from him."

CHANGE PLACES

Less than two years after joining the firm, Mr. Morrison bought the Duncan branch of Wilson Motors and established himself there as Morrison Motors Ltd.

The Duncan business has now been sold to Walter R. Stipe of Victoria and will become Wally Stipe Motors Ltd. Mr. Stipe and Mr. Morrison are virtually changing places in that Mr. Morrison will live in Victoria with his wife and four children, while Mr. Stipe goes to Duncan.

"I am busy looking for a house in Victoria," Mr. Morrison said today.

His father, Rev. Wesley R. Morrison, is now in Toronto but even at 77 he is not settled. He may yet undertake another missionary enterprise abroad.

Mr. Morrison started life as a business man, why keep your capital tied up in rolling equipment? Get a Meteor, Mercury, Lincoln or Mercury Truck on Gladwell's Lease Plan. Or if you prefer, an Anglia, Prefect, Consul or Zephyr, whatever suits your need.

Here's what the plan offers you... NO CAPITAL OUTLAY... NO MAINTENANCE EXPENSES... LOWER OPERATING COSTS... NO DEPRECIATION WORRIES... RATES AS LOW AS $58.50 PER MONTH... AND CARE-FREE DRIVING IN THE NEW CAR OF YOUR CHOICE. Drop in and see us now at GLADWELL MOTORS LIMITED—Pandora at Quadra.

BRITAIN BUYS SILVER TO REPAY U.S. LOAN

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain will spend £5,470,000 ($15,316,000) in the coming year to buy silver to repay in part a Second World War loan from the United States.

The silver, borrowed under lend-lease, was 88,000,000 ounces, which at present prices is worth $81,200,000.

A large part of the loan has already been repaid to the U.S.

IN 1794 AN ENGLISHMAN, R. STREET, DESIGNED AN INTERNAL COMBUSTION ENGINE WHICH WOULD OPERATE ON VAPORIZED TURPENTINE AND AIR. THIRTY YEARS LATER, ANOTHER ENGLISH PIONEER IN THE ENGINE FIELD, SAMUEL BROWN, PUT AN EXPLOSIVE TYPE ENGINE TO WORK DRIVING A ROAD VEHICLE AND A BOAT. AT THE 1867 PARIS EXHIBITION A NUMBER OF INTERNAL COMBUSTION ENGINES WERE DEMONSTRATED SHOWING THEIR PRACTICAL APPLICATION. THEY ALL HAD AN OPEN TOP CYLINDER AND WERE KNOWN AS "FREE PISTON" ENGINES. ## NO! NO! IT WAS OFFSIDE

Alertness and a fast argument paid off here for Lutton in an Old Country soccer game. Neither Lutton's goal, Ron Baynam nor the centre-halfback was quick enough to stop this scoring shot but the loud protest from the centre-half, delivered while still airborne, was accepted by the referee who disallowed the goal for an offside infraction. Game ended in a 0-0 tie. (Mirrorpic.)

IT'S MY VIEW BY Bill Walker

Cleaning out the bottom drawer—How do you like your Western Hockey League all-stars? It all depends, it seems, from which part of the country you see 'em.

The consensus is:
For goal, in the east—Ed Chadwick.
For goal, in the west—Marcel Pelletier.
Or would you rather have left wingers? In the east, Eddie Mazur; in the west, Colin Kilburn.
And so the guessing game goes... at centre, Sid Finney versus Phil Maloney.

The fight wing berth is a little simpler. Blinky Boyce of the Royals is outnumbered two to one by Jackie McLeod of the Quakers and Barry Cullen of the Warriors.
But Calgary's defenceman Fred Hucul stands alone. He has been named on almost everyone's all-star list; and then you have Arthur in Edmonton, Keith Allen at Brandon, Art Michaluk at Calgary and Bob Bergeron at New Westminster. Pat Egan curries favor at Vancouver.

P.S. The east outvotes the west, five cities to four, with three votes in each centre, or a 15-12 edge.

How big is big in basketball? You can get a good idea by looking over the Fort Wayne Pistons of the National Basketball League (on TV every Saturday). Seven of the 10 men on the club are 6'5" or over in height.

For the caller who was asking—Bobby Van Horne is manager and professional at the Newland's Golf and Country Club at Langley.

Rangers Make Most of Their Chances

In basketball you figure to be good if you hit more than 35 per cent of your shots. What's the percentage in hockey? New York Rangers have one of the best, averaging a goal for every 8.7 shots or 11.5 per cent. The payoff is that Rangers' average number of shots a game is among the lowest in the NHL, 26.4, while Detroit, for example, averages 34.

Victorians may get one look at Pacific Coast League baseball here this summer. The plan, under consideration, is that Vancouver Mounties meet Seattle Rainiers here with the proceeds to the cancer fund. The proposed game would be played on Sunday or Monday.

Incidentally, John Pickburn of Strathcona, has concluded preliminary negotiations with soccer officials in Vancouver to obtain tickets for Victorians wishing to see the Everton-Aberdeen soccer game in Vancouver, June 9. John will welcome names (and dough)...

Playoff rules will prevail in the preliminary round-robin series to determine the western division finalists in the WHL. In other words, all games will be played to a decision, sudden death overtime being the dictum...

Let's Give Ted a Break

Ted's such a good guy, we'll give him one more chance. A while ago, yours truly and Ted Reynolds of radio CJVI made a small wager that, on the one hand, Cougars wouldn't draw 5,000 fans before the final game of the regular season, and, on the other, that they would. The loser was to wheel the winner, barrow style, around the town.

We won, because not yet have 5,000 fans seen the Cougars on any night; however, with "Gold Dust Line" night upcoming next Friday, and Doug-Macaulay, Colin Kilburn and Doug Anderson deserving of public recognition, we've granted Ted one day stay of execution. If he can put the extra three or four hundred fans into the rink that the club has been shy of in reaching that 5,000 total these past two games, we'll do the wheeling.

Even if you don't like Ted, we figure the Gold Dusters have upheld their end of the bargain this year.

And so we're doing this for them—those radio types never could never gauge public opinion.

Harper Prize Bound In Cowichan 'Spiel'

DUNCAN—With the completion of Saturday morning's early draw Ron Harper's rink was assured of prizes in two events in the Cowichan Curling Club's fourth annual bonspiel.

Gary Merrett ousted Larry Marshall, Victoria, in the third round of the Wadsworth primary event to gain revenge for his defeat by Marshall in the first round of the Wright primary event earlier in the bonspiel.

The Ron Harper and Tony Folk rinks entered the semi-finals of the Wright primary event while Glen Harper, Merrett and Glen Spinks gained the silver circle of the Cushman-Riverside secondary event Friday night.

Ron Harper and Vic Buchanan, Youbou, entered the prize ring of the Cowichan Curling Club secondary event along with Bucky Kennet's quartet skipped by Lee Selzer.

Speaking of 'Rookies', Colin Lends Larry Hand

Kilburn, Leach Spark Victory Over Americans

By BILL WALKER

Victoria 3, Seattle 2 (Overtime)

It was quite a debut for the kids. But it remained for an old sweat, who'll be a rookie himself next year, to put the icing on this particular cake.

Captain Colin Kilburn of the Cougars, Boston bound next fall, and rookie Larry Leach, playing his first professional game, sparked the Cougars to a tense 3-2 overtime victory over Seattle Americans at Memorial Arena-Friday night.

Kilburn got two goals, his 42nd and 43rd of the season, and Leach one, his first.

Triumph kept Cougars within one point of the Western Hockey League western division leaders, Vancouver Canucks, and defeat left Seattle in a third-place tie with New Westminster Royals.

Canucks whipped Royals, 4-1 at Vancouver.

Leach, a 20-year-old centre from Humboldt of the Saskatchewan Junior League, and his Humboldt linemate, Pete Panagabko, most valuable player in the SJHL, stepped into the breach for the Cougars in impressive fashion.

Called up as replacements for injured coach Eddie Olson and centre Doug Anderson, the youngsters showed so well that coach Billy Reay of the Americans mellowed when he spoke of them.

Said Reay, who otherwise was the epitome of the locked dressing-room policy he instituted after the game: "I liked them. They'll help you."

Leach, taking a regular turn, over, but only after a number of false starts attributed mostly to Hodge in the Seattle goal and Doug Macaulay's inability to locate the net. Macaulay said after three "I must have missed three at least."

Then Kilburn and Teal took over, but only after a number of false starts attributed mostly to Hodge in the Seattle goal and Doug Macaulay's inability to locate the net. Macaulay said after three "I must have missed three at least."

And it was while Cougars were short two men in the second period that Ollie Dorohoy gave Americans their second lead with an iced shot following a face-off in the Cougar zone.

MISS STEWART & CO. TO MEET 'Y' TONIGHT

The 50-strong Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club, led by Pan-American Games medal winner Helen Stewart, will display its championship wares tonight at Crystal Garden Pool.

The powerful Vancouver club, which owns more Canadian records than any other club in Canada, will take on the Victoria YMCA team in an intercity gala at the Crystal starting at 7.

The clubs will contest 30 events in four strokes.

BAKER STILL CONFIDENT

Double D's Down Plenty

Vancouver 74, Victoria D & D 55
VANCOUVER (Special)—Things were strange indeed for Island senior B champion Dickinson & Dunn at Vancouver's UBC gymnasium Friday night.

The D & D quintet, playing away from the familiar confines of Victoria's Central Junior High School and facing glass backboards for the first time this season, dropped the first game of the two-game total point B.C. men's senior "B" basketball semifinal, 74-55, to Vancouver St. Regis.

Tonight at 9:30 the two teams switch over to King Edward High School gym, and wooden backboards, for the final game. And playing coach Norm Baker feels that that will make enough difference for his squad to sweep aside the 19-point deficit and take the series.

"We can still take this ball club," Baker said Friday after the opening game. "We couldn't hit a thing on those glass backboards, but it'll be different Saturday."

According to Baker, it was foul shots that beat the Double D's. They only hit for 25 per cent of their free throws.

Foul shots and Norm Munro, Veteran Munro turned in a sizzling game for St. Regis, hitting for 27 points. Denny Wetherpoon followed with 12, while Baker managed to solve the backboard problem for 20 points, to lead the Victorians.

Winner of the series will host Kamloops Merchants in the provincial final.

Scores:
Victoria: Artman 9, Baker 20, G. Munro 6, W. Munro 6, Bradshaw 6, Clarkson 2, Davis 11, Denison 6, Jackson 10, Pearson 4, Total 55.
Vancouver: Dickinson 16, Munro 27, Wetherpoon 12, Louie 4, Bell 2, White 0, Total 74.

Form Takes Beating in Shuttle Meet

CALGARY (CP)—Upsets were the rule, rather than the exception, Friday in the semifinals of the Canadian badminton championships.

Jean Waring of Calgary, double-barrel winner of the women's and junior women's singles last year, was cast to the sidelines by Jean Miller of Montreal, 6-11, 11-7 and 11-8.

Jack Ewhank and John Carter of Vancouver pulled the second big upset of semifinals play when they disposed of defending men's doubles champs Bert Ferguson and Daryl Thompson of Vancouver, 7-15, 15-6, 15-4.

Jean Bardsley and Thompson, winners of the mixed doubles honors in four of the last seven tournaments, were beaten by Martin Semple of Toronto and Miss Miller, 15-5, 15-11, in two straight games.

Vancouverite Dave McTaggart, star of last year's Canadian Thomas Cup team, dropped one match before he sidelined Pete Ferguson of Toronto, 5-15, 15-11, 15-9.

In the final today he meets Rev Westcott of Toronto, who defeated John Bouck of Vancouver, B.C. singles champion, 15-10, 9-15, 15-9.

In the women's singles finals Miss Miller will battle Kae Grant of Montreal who advanced when she downed Arj Shedd of Toronto, 12-9, 11-8.

Bill Purcell and Miss Shedd disposed of Ferguson and Louie Reid of Vancouver, 15-8, 15-12, to clinch a finals slot. They now meet Miss Miller and Semple.

Marj Shedd and Joan Hennessy of Toronto, Canadian women's doubles titleholders for the last two years, moved into the finals when they defeated Claire Lovett of Vancouver and Maureen Bray of Victoria, 15-12, 15-11. In today's finals they take on Mrs. Bardsley and Miss Reid, who defeated Miss Grant and Miss Miller, 15-9, 15-8, Friday night.

Ken Smith, 787; Roy Jago, 775; Doug Romkey and Wilf Edwards, 765; Pius Scherr, 760; Gordie Smith, 731; Dave Ewing, 731; Peggy Garnot, 711 (301), and May Wallis, 711, mauled most maples at Capital City.

Jim Murray, 708; Evelyn Davies, 706; Beth Stevenson, 705 (303); Ron Cuth, 705 (313); Ted Southwell and Ivy Devine, 705; Bob Burrows, 704; Tom Rose, 703; Joan White and Harry Cool, 702, and Charlie Watson and Bill Peterson, 700, also scored notable efforts.

Larry Didn't Know and Didn't Care

Never having heard of the nefarious talents of some of the Americans, Leach gave back what he got, plus a little more, and had earned respect by the finish.

To make it certain his debut was to be a success, he fired home the first Cougar goal in the first period, whacking "Arnold" Whitely's rebound past Charlie Hodge to tie the score at 1-1.

Val Fonteyne had given Americans the lead at 7:38 when he was unmarked, beside the Cougar goal, and flipped a backhand by Marcel Pelletier.

Although Panagabko didn't figure in the scoring, he too was taking his regular shift at the end, and showed a whistling shot, on one of which

A pass out from Bill Davidson to Teal at the blueline, with Kilburn racing down the right side, caught the Americans napping, and when Teal spotted Kilburn he was in the clear, beating Hodge with a low backhand.

Americans rode out three successive penalties, once playing two men short for almost two minutes, to send the game into overtime.

It was Hodge against the field, the field being the Cougars, in extra time.

He did the impossible for a time during penalties to Sam Lavitt and Pete Durham; and just when he seemed to have beaten back the challenge, Kilburn got loose and ripped his 43rd goal into the net to send the "Shrine" night crowd of 4,591 home happy.

Coach Eddie Olson was particularly pleased with the rookies, Leach and Panagabko, and depending on his condition, and that of Anderson, will likely use both again tonight at New Westminster, while Canucks visit Seattle.

Both are eligible to play six games without endangering their amateur status.

"They'll do," said Olson, "and real well, I think."

Canucks Whip Royals, Quakers Near Berth

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Canucks mixed it up with New Westminster Royals for 20 minutes and then rammed in three second-period goals to stop the Royals, 4-1, here Friday night in a Western Hockey League game.

The win maintained Vancouver's one-point lead over Victoria Cougars.

Winger Tom McCarthy drove in two of the Vancouver goals while George Ford and Mark Marquess scored the others.

Max McNab, Royals' playing coach, replied for New Westminster.

Phil Maloney, league-leading point getter, assisted on both McCarthy goals before about 5,000 spectators.

The game was a big one for Canucks and a heart-breaker for Royals, who have only four games left to catch a playoff berth. The regular season winds up next week.

In another upset, Carla Marchelli of Italy beat Madeleine Berthod of Switzerland, the Olympic champion, in the women's downhill race, timed in 2 minutes, 18.3 seconds. Miss Berthod was second in 2:19.9.

Anne Heggtveit of Ottawa was 12th in 2:25.7 and Lucille Wheeler of St. Jovite, Que., who finished third in the Olympic downhill race, was 19th in 2:26.3.

Melnyk's Goal Gives Flyers Win

Edmonton 3, Brandon 2
EDMONTON (AP)—Centre Gerry Melnyk scored on a 40-foot slider to give Edmonton Flyers a 3-2 overtime win over Brandon Regals Friday night in a Western Hockey League game before 4,500 fans.

The other Edmonton scorers were Earl Ching Johnson and Bill Dea.

Bill Chorley and Dale Sweeney scored for Brandon.

Quakers, Warriors In Overtime Tie

Saskatoon 2, Winnipeg 2
WINNIPEG (CP)—Saskatoon Quakers and Winnipeg Warriors fought to a 2-2 overtime tie in a Western Hockey League game before 6,290 fans, Friday night, to consolidate their hold on the fourth playoff position. They now lead Brandon by seven points.

A goal by Jackie McLeod late in the third period tied up the game, forcing an overtime session. Len Haley scored the other Quaker goal. Brian Cullen and Bill Mosienko scored for the Warriors.

In fivepats at Gibson's, Bill McKinnon, 837; B. Gar-not, 820; Gordie Smith, 773 (340); Bill Odgers, 760 (322); Stan Jones, 755; W. MacDonald, 750; Phil Smith, 748 (326); Sheldon Nipp, 746, and Cee McRae, 730 (307), set the pace.

Ken Jones, 727; K. Mayzes, 722; R. Chamberlain, 716; Percy Riddle, 706 (301); Darrell Jenkins, 703, and Sam Soong, 700, were also high.

Gentleman John Stops, Aids Pal

MELBOURNE, Australia (UP)—Gentleman John Landy injured his ankle and spoiled chances of breaking his world mile record today when he stopped on the last lap to help a fallen teammate off the track.

It was the greatest sporting gesture ever seen in Australia and a record crowd at Olympic Park track gave Landy an ovation.

Even though Landy lost precious seconds, perhaps enough to shatter his own mile record of three minutes and 58.2 seconds he returned to the track with a great burst of speed overtook two runners ahead of him and won by 15 yards.

The time was four minutes and 4.2 seconds.

Landy had set out to run the mile in three minutes and 57.6 seconds. He was pacing himself and trailing Ron Clarke by a few yards as the milers started the last lap.

Then Clarke stumbled and fell to the track and the long-legged Landy leaped over him and stopped. Landy assisted the dazed Clarke to his feet and helped him walk to the grass at the edge of the track.

"I must have kicked (sprained) my ankle when dropping (jumping over Clarke) but I didn't feel it then," Landy said. "I saw the field was well ahead but Clarke told me to go after it. I put my head down and went as fast as I could. I won but didn't know I could sprint so fast."

A ringing cheer went up when Landy stopped and when he finished the crowd gave him an ovation the like of which never had been heard before in Australia.

V's Couldn't Come Back This Time

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Kelowna Packers thumped Penticton V's 8-1 Friday night in the Okanagan Senior Hockey League and eliminated from the league finals the team that won the world hockey championship two years ago.

Kelowna took the best-of-seven semifinal series 4-3 in games and now goes into a best-of-five final against Vernon Canadians, winners of the OSHL championship in regular season play.

Penticton, who showed rare sparks of championship form in extending the series to the limit, were way off the mark in the last game.

The V's had taken the league title the previous two years and as Canada's representative, had gone on to win the world's championship in a series against the top European teams in 1954-55.

Hoad Reaches Finals
CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Lewis Hoad of Australia and Sven Davidson of Sweden Friday gained the final round of the Egyptian international tennis tournament.

Hoad crushed Fred Kovalevich of Washington, D.C., 6-1, 6-2, 6-4. Davidson eliminated the veteran Jaroslav Drobný of Egypt, former Wimbledon champion, 6-4, 7-5, 4-6, 7-2. The finals are scheduled Sunday.

Downhill Reaches Finals
In another upset, Carla Marchelli of Italy beat Madeleine Berthod of Switzerland, the Olympic champion, in the women's downhill race, timed in 2 minutes, 18.3 seconds. Miss Berthod was second in 2:19.9.

Anne Heggtveit of Ottawa was 12th in 2:25.7 and Lucille Wheeler of St. Jovite, Que., who finished third in the Olympic downhill race, was 19th in 2:26.3.

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY
Denny Boyd

The local rugby fraternity, small as it is, can be split into two clearly defined parties.

There are those who think Garry Pynn is a magnificent kicker with a bad temper.

And there are those who think Garry Pynn is a magnificent kicker.

As you can see, there is one point on which there is not one jot of difference: that Pynn is the most accurate-footed booter to come along since the days of Doug Peden, Tom McKeachie and Darrell Popham.

While his JBAA teammates sing a loud and continuous song in Garry's praise, you can get a better evaluation of his skills from any member of the Oak Bay Wanderers; the grudging but sincere praise of a defeated opponent.

Four straight years, now, it has been JBAA and Oak Bay in the Barnard Cup final and four straight years, Pynn's kicking has given the title to the JBAA squad.

They don't keep record books in local rugby but most close followers of the game can remember any one of the many great kicking performances Pynn has put on.

In the 1953-54 season, only the second he played, Pynn accounted for over half of his team's season points with his kicking.

Made Mark Against All-Blacks

In 1954 he drilled a straight-as-a-string 50-yard penalty goal against New Zealand All-Blacks in an exhibition game. The same season, his penalty goal and convert were the decisive points in the city finals.

Last year, when JBAA entered an intercity league with Vancouver, Pynn's knowledgeable toe accounted for all of the 29 points the club scored in its first six games.

JBAA coach Alex Macdonald claims the greatest kick Pynn ever made was an unsuccessful penalty kick against UBC at the Thunderbirds' stadium.

There was a driving, wind-swept rainstorm blowing directly into Pynn's face as he lined the ball up on the 50-yard line. He stepped back, trotted up to the ball and thumped it solidly toward the posts. The ball hit into the wind and drove into the upright, three feet above the crossbar, bouncing back onto the field.

"It missed," said Macdonald, "but I've never seen a kick like it. With all the mud, that ball must have weighed five pounds. Yet he drove it into that wind and if it hadn't hit the upright, it would have gone 65 yards on the fly."

Pynn played only three games this year but in each game, he supplied the margin of JBAA's victory.

Two of the games were the Barnard Cup series. In the first game, it was a 3-3 tie until Pynn lofted home a penalty goal from 30 yards out on the sidelines. It was so windy that Pynn aimed the kick almost at the opposite sideline, gauged it perfectly and the wind cradled the ball between the posts for a 6-3 victory.

In the second game, JBAA was trailing, 3-6. Pynn broke that up with two penalty kicks, one from 47 yards out and the other from 25.

Three Keys to Booting Success

If Pynn has any secret of success it could be any one or the combination of instep, confidence and practise.

On the instep angle, Pynn stands alone in the city as the only good non-toe booter which he believes, is a carry-over from soccer.

Confidence? Garry says, "If you approach a kick thinking 'Pretty tough angle... wind's bad... never make it,' you just haven't got a chance. You have to believe you can make every kick."

Practise? "The second year I played, I used to go up to the high school field every afternoon and practise for an hour and a half by myself. I'd take the place kick, run down after the ball and punt it back. That way I practiced both kind of kicks and got my legs and lungs in shape."

On this temper business, with which he is sometimes rapped, Garry is frank.

"I've got a temper, I guess. You might say I blow off steam at the drop of a Pynn. I guess I got that way because I was very small when I started playing and I used to get knocked around a lot. I try to control it because I know it hurts my game when I blow up. Sometimes I could kick myself for losing my temper."

And, you can almost be sure that if Garry did kick himself, he would go through the posts, straight and true, for three points.

Shhh! Baseball Here, And Until October Too

By UNITED PRESS

It's "play ball" in the Grapefruit League today and it's a cry that'll echo all over the land until the world series is tucked away in the history books next October.

With the preliminary "limbering up" stage of their programs out of the way, the 16 major league teams embark on a gruelling schedule of some 280 exhibition games leading up to the April 17 openers.

No crippling injury such as suffered by Ted Williams and Bobby Thomson in recent springs have marred the early program but several of the game's top stars will be on the sidelines nursing minor injuries.

They include shortstop Pee-wee Reese of the Dodgers, recuperating from a pulled back muscle; first baseman Ted Kluszewski of the Redlegs with a lame back, and Cleveland pitcher Mike Garcia, recovering from a stomach ailment.

The "injury jinx" also hit the Cardinals and Pirates, forcing managers Fred Hutchinson and Bobby Bragan to revise their plans.

The Cardinals were hit when pitcher Willard Schmidt, 7-6 last season, was hospitalized with an intestinal obstruction and third-baseman Boyer underwent minor surgery. Schmidt could miss the entire season if an operation is required although doctors feel he'll recuperate without it.

Shortstop Dick Groat, second-baseman Johnny O'Brien and first-baseman Dale Long all were sidelined with injuries leaving the Pirates without three-fourths of their first string infield.

Otherwise it was a routine day Friday as the players prepared for the long grind which generally is broken only by inclement weather.

The Giants dispatched scout Tom Sheehan to hunt down Ramon Montant in Maracaibo, Venezuela, and attempt to talk him out of retiring for the 1956 campaign.

Stan Hack announced that four newcomers—third-baseman Don Hoak, outfielders

Golf Lead Shared

Kesseling Fades At Pensacola

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Two 28-year-old pros, neither of whom has had any particular success on the golf tournament circuit, forged to the front Friday at the halfway mark of the $12,500 Pensacola open.

Bo Winger, Oklahoma City, Okla., and George Bigham, Kansas City, Mo., tied with five-under-par 139s after 36 holes. Winger won the Hot Springs, Ark., meet earlier and is a former champion of the Baton Rouge, La., open. Bigham is a newcomer to the circuit.

Winger had a 67 to go with his opening round 72, and Bigham shot a 69, one under his opening day 70.

Runner-up was young Joe Black, Abilene, Tex., with 71-69-140.

Jerry Kesseling of Kitchener, Ont., who paced the field in the opening round with a four-under-par 68, blew himself to a 76 Friday. He was tied in 21st place with six others, including Al Balding of Toronto. Balding had a 72 Friday to match his score of Thursday for a total of 144.

The field was cut to 64 pros and 10 amateurs for the final two rounds today and Sunday. The cutoff was 150 for the pros and 134 for the amateurs.

Hottest rounds of the day were turned in by two more young pros, Dick Masterson, Oakmont, Pa., and Arnold Palmer, 1954 U.S. champion from Latrobe, Pa., who came home with six-under-par 66s.

Ed Furgol, the 1954 U.S. open champion, was in a contending position behind the leaders with a 72-69-141, with seven other players.

Roach Tops Gun Club Trophy Shoot

First leg results of the Victoria Gun Club's trap and skeet competitions have now been finalized.

Perennial winner Jack Roach is the first leg winner in the trap A class, while Ron Watson is the winner in the B class. George Gov is the C class winner and J. Neil headed the D class gunners.

The Zaccarelli doubles first leg was won by Henry Pottinger, Sr.

In the skeet competitions, young Hugh Neuman topped the CIL Trophy shooters and H. Woodbury was at the top of the B class listings. S. Burkhard led the C class and Bob Chambers won the first leg of the D class.

D. Michaelson shot a 45/50 to win the newly installed Victoria Marine Handicap Trophy first leg and Herb Handyside won the first leg of the Humber Handicap-Trophy.

On Sunday, members will take part in the first big registered shoot. Members will hand in their targets to set their handicaps. Practice shoots will be held in conjunction with the registered targeteering.

Shooting will start at 1:30 and visitors are welcome.

Make Net Finals

BEALIEU, France (CP)—Larry Barclay and Paul Willey, both of Vancouver, Friday moved into the finals of the men's doubles in the Beaulieu tennis tournament.

They defeated Malcolm Fox of Washington and Tony Vincent of Miami, 7-5, 6-3, in a semifinal match and will meet Andre Gimeno and Antonio Martinez of Spain in the finals.

First-round play will end by Wednesday, and second-round play will start that night. First round losers will compete in a consolation event, with every rink assured of two games.

Each rink must have three regular members with which to start each game, and a spare must be picked up to throw lead rocks. The spare must play in all games and is not eligible to cur for another rink.

YOUTH MORE IMPORTANT THAN GRASS, SAYS MAYOR

Mayor Percy Scourrah said Friday he will ask city council parks committee to permit wider use of city playing fields by sports organizations.

"I feel it is more important to further youth sports activities than to grow grass," he said.

His comments followed a meeting with a delegation from Victoria District Soccer League. The group had complained that schedules were being delayed through repeated city cancellations of park use to protect rain-softened turf.

"Even if it costs us more money it is more important to train boys and young men than to have a nice looking soccer field," he added.

CITY CHAMPION

Potter Takes Chess Tourney

By BILL RAYNER
Brilliant young B. A. Potter defeated Capt. J. Lee in his final game Friday night, to win the 1956 Victoria City Chess Club championship.

Potter finished with a total of 10 points, while runner-up, Dr. Simon Marinker, had a total of 8½ points, with only one game left to play.

In the "B" division, A. G. Higgs kept comfortably at the top of the heap with a victory over L. P. Groves this week, keeping his 2½-point spread over V. Harrison, who defeated G. Wilkinson.

Well-known Victoria chess enthusiast, J. Baines-Lewis, has donated $25 toward a trophy to be awarded to the winner of the first inter-high school chess tournament, now under way among five Victoria high schools.

Baines-Lewis, who left this week for an extended visit to England, recently donated $125 to the YMCA to further chess instruction there.

A strong player, Baines-Lewis has twice held the championship of the Victoria City Chess Club. He is a past president, and is now honorary president of the club. He is also a past president of the B.C. Chess Federation.

Also of interest to local chess players is the results of the second Rosendal tournament in the U.S. Arthur Bisguier took first place with a 6-4 mark, while Larry Evans was second and Sammy Reshevsky, who appeared here recently, finished third.

Results and next week's schedule:

CHAMPIONSHIP W L D Pts
B. A. Potter 10 0 0 10

Festival, Music Club Complement Each Other

BY AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Musical organizations in a city present a perfect illustration of the fact that nothing human exists as an isolated entity. They prove too that anyone who thinks that a symphony orchestra or a festival can be folded up without causing a major disruption is, to speak bluntly, indulging in ignorance. Let's take the Victoria Music Festival as an example, and consider it alongside the Victoria Musical Art Society as a particular case in point.

Both organizations are about to embark on an annual event.

The Musical Art group, at the close of their winter season, having made a careful selection of outstanding city students, will present several in a traditional spring program at the Empress Hotel on Tuesday evening.

The Music Festival will begin more than a week of day-long sessions and evening concerts on Wednesday. Each event bears a relationship to the other, not only at the moment but over the course of years.

MUSICAL ART DATE

That they themselves recognize this is reflected in the action of the Musical Art Society which advanced the date of its recital one week, from the 20th, in order not to conflict with the festival.

The affinity between these two organizations lies in the fact that both function to a large extent with a view to assisting in the training of young musicians, dancers and speech artists and the raising of local musical standards.

In one year, for instance, 13-year-old budding horn virtuoso Kenneth Muir may be gaining experience by playing in the school bands section of the festival; the next, the quality of his playing has risen to such an extent that he gains one of the sought-after spots on the Musical Art program.

FESTIVAL EXPERIENCE

Or take a fine young trio of violin, flute and piano which will also be heard at the student recital. Violinist John Sawyer, flutist Stephen Morris and pianist Joanne Dawson have all had the invaluable experience of festival performance and adjudication.

This year Joanne, after a year's concentrated study, will reappear at the festival in two senior piano classes.

School choral singing in the festival has given a number of youngsters such a taste for this form of musical expression that at their own wish, the Musical Art Society has sponsored a junior choir which is directed by Boyce Gaddes.

Both organizations specialize in providing bursaries and scholarships for talented students who wish to go further in their particular field.

The Musical Festival is exceptional perhaps, in that it provides that most unique pacer "on the road to excellence"—comparison. No real knowledge of one's own merits and shortcomings can be achieved without the opportunity to listen and compare.

In this way, the festival, having set the pace and stimulated interest is partnered by the Musical Art Society which watches the talent grow and offers encouragement and rewards.

Composers Arbiters Of Orchestral Parts

By HANS GRUBER

What constitutes a symphony orchestra is dictated by the instrumental requirements laid down by composers who wrote music specifically for performance by symphony orchestras.

The basic and minimum force is made up as follows:

Three players in the flute section, namely two flutes and piccolo; three players in the oboe department, i.e. two oboes and English horn; two clarinets are usually sufficient, though occasionally certain composers require also a bass clarinet and/or a high E-flat clarinet; three bassoons are mandatory; the third playing the contrabassoon.

Five French horns must be regarded as a minimum; mostly, there are parts for four separate horn players, but the first or "solo" horn must have an assistant to relieve him before his lips seize up just before an important solo passage.

MANY HORNS

However, compositions exist which call for no less than eight horns. In the trumpet section, two players will answer the composers' requirements more often than not, though the principle of an additional assistant applies here, too. Some composers require up to four trumpets.

Then, one alto trombone, one tenor trombone, and one bass trombone make up the minimum—you guessed it—trombone section, plus very frequently a bass tuba.

The percussion consists of three players at least—one of the belabored tuba, one of the kettle-drums or timpani, another one doing the same to bass drum and cymbals, and a third operating upon the side drum and/or (not simultaneously) triangle.

Any number of additional percussion instruments are called for from time to time, requiring additional players. Just come and see at the next concert what Rimsky-Korsakoff needs in his Capriccio Espagnol!

Then we come to the heart of the symphony orchestra—the string section. What must be the least number of players is 12 first violins, 10 second violins, eight violas, eight cellos, and five string or double-basses.

70 AND GOOD TOO!

Totally, an aggregation of musicians of no less than 70 is the bare minimum before the term "symphony orchestra" can be properly applied, and before a season of programs of orchestral literature can be undertaken.

What is more, each one of these 70 musicians must know, in no uncertain way, what he is about. The proverbial "six easy lessons" do not fit one for participating in even a very bad symphony orchestra.

The barest minimum skill necessary for each of the 70 odd musicians of, say, the Victoria Symphony, can only be acquired after what amounts to an investment of many, many thousands of dollars over years of lessons, in untold hours of practicing (isn't time money?), in purchase and maintenance of good quality and expensive instruments—for a cheap instrument is of no more use than a poor player.

Given, then, at least 70 musicians with skill upon the various instruments listed above, each one must further acquire the specialized art of orchestral playing which can be summed up generally as "orchestral routine." They must have nerves of steel, though no nerves at all is better still.

I have heard it said that it must be "fun" playing in a symphony orchestra. I, for one, can use no one who is having "fun" playing in an orchestra. It is—and let there be no mistake about it—physical and mental labor of the hardest and bitterest sort, and of uncompromising and heavy responsibility.

FOR YOUNG MUSICIANS

Geneva Again to Stage International Contest

After the big success of the 11th International Competition for Musical Performers in Geneva, at which the young Canadian baritone from Ontario, James Milligan, won first prize in his category, the organizing committee has decided to hold another international competition for 1956.

This is to take place from September 22 to October 6 and will comprise the following categories: voice, piano, violin, oboe, horn and, for the first time, guitar.

Young artists, between 15 and 30 years of age, from all countries may compete. Prizes amounting to $3,000 will be awarded. Once again the competition will be organized in co-operation with Radio Geneva and the Swiss Romande Orchestra.

The prospectus containing the rules and program of the competition will be sent by the secretariat (Conservatoire de Musique, Geneva, Switzerland) on request. A list of the adjudicators consisting of international musicians, will be published at the end of February. Applications will be accepted up to July 14, 1956.

MET FIND

Dutch Tenor Excels In 'Meistersinger'

NEW YORK (UP)—A 29-year-old tenor from Amsterdam, N.Y., has risen suddenly from obscurity to become one of the most-talked-about singers at the Metropolitan Opera. He is Albert Da Costa, who made a triumph of his first "big" operatic role—that of Walther in Wagner's "The Mastersingers."

The return of the Wagnerian masterpiece to the repertoire was something of a triumph for the artistic management, too, since it was, by and large, a fresh and youthful cast which produced a brilliant musical and human production. Lisa Della Casa made an Eva which sent Wagnerians and opera-lovers into seizures of enthusiasm.

But there were reservations about the Hans Sachs sung by Otto Edelmann whose voice is fine and musically used but to which the user gave a rather remote and chilled quality not in keeping with the warm humanity of this core character of the opera.

INNER VOICES

Rudolf Kempe worked wonders of bloom restoration from the orchestra pit. This young conductor of the German wing confounded those of short memories who have come to think of a Wagnerian score as a heavily massed struggle be-

Duncan Club Plans Colorful Musical

"Maid of the Mountains" will be produced by the Duncan Musical Club on March 15, 16 and 17 at Cowichan High School auditorium in Duncan. The feminine lead, "Teresa," will be sung by Margaret Hall, whose outstanding performance as "Sonia" in the Gilbert and Sullivan Society's production of "The Merry Widow" is well remembered here in Victoria. Alan Vance, president of the

Duncan Club, will sing the role of "Beppo," his fine tenor being heard to special advantage in the lovely duet "Paradise for Two," which he sings with "Teresa."

Others in the large cast of principals are Lavonne Gunn, Betty Calverley, Ed Miskiman, Ed Cuppage, Dan Drozdak, Will Jackson, Ricky Jenks, Douglas Hudson and David Lowe.

As well as carrying her principal role Margaret Hall has designed and made most of the costumes. Irene Paradis is responsible for the ballet and specialty dance numbers, having choreographed them and trained the dancers.

RECORD SHOP

Exciting New Discs Often Overlooked

By HUMPHRY DAVY

It is estimated that about 5,000 new classical and popular recordings are issued a year by established companies. It would be sheer guesswork to attempt to estimate the volume of discs sold. They run into millions.

While this output of new recorded music is spectacular, it is regrettable that three quarters of it is never heard by the general music-loving public. Some of these recordings, containing creative and exciting music, are seldom heard outside a collector's library.

This was driven home when a friend of mine played a record which I did not know existed and which made me sit bolt upright from beginning to end.

The Capital record which goes under the name of "Mask of the Red Death" by Andre Caplet, is a work for harp and strings. It is based on one of Edgar Allan Poe's fascinating stories.

I have never found the harp a spectacular solo instrument, but in this case it is outstandingly successful. The entire work is racy and descriptive. The performance by Dorothy Stockton, soloist, with the Concert Arts Orchestra, is brilliant.

Another record of pleasing qualities is Urania's "Bronze Horseman" ballet suite, by Reinhold Gliere, a Russian composer. Gliere's work which on the whole is suggestive of western classicism and romanticism, is rarely performed on this continent. He is a change from the old stand bys.

Deserving a top rating is Angel's album of Verdi's Aida, with Tullio Serafin conducting the orchestra and chorus of La Scala. This is the seventh recording of Aida by different companies and it will be difficult to surpass it.

Loanout: Lucy Marlowe's latest official performance — in Columbia's "He Died Laughing." However she appeared unofficially in a production filmed mostly by her husband, third baseman Andy Carey, of the New York Yankees, while they were on their honeymoon in Japan. Every member of the barnstorming Yankee squad who went on the trip will receive a print of the finished film. She is helping Carey to edit and cut his 2,000 feet. Carey's hobby is photography.

On the popular side, look out for RCA Victor's new Belafonte album. This is certain to make a hit with "pop" fans. The program includes "Scarlet Ribbons," "Matilda" and "Water boy."

"Our Melody" could be a big hit. The best versions of it are by Guy Lombardo on his Capitol debut and by Hugo and Luigi on Mercury.

For those who like in-between-music, Angel's "Philharmonia Pop Concert" is an excellent choice. Program includes gay polkas, romantic waltzes and marches.

An unusual record which will appeal to those who pine for the music of the gay nineties is the San Francisco record "My Father's Moustache." Sound is good and the music will provide you with lots of fun.

Latest Heat Wave, Kim Novak Sizzles Hollywood Celluloid

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—The mercury had zoomed to 108 degrees in an unprecedented California heat wave.

People were sleeping beside the sea at Malibu Beach. Swank private pools in Beverly Hills resembled mid-summer Atlantic City mob scenes. Perspiring press agents were posing bikini-clad movie cuties on cakes of ice for "How to Keep Cool" photos.

At Columbia studios Tyrone Power was walking from a sound stage to his car when a friend caught up with him and asked:

"How are you bearing up under this heat?"

Power smiled and said: "I'm used to it. I've been playing love scenes with Kim Novak."

Kim Novak, a 23-year-old, five-foot-seven blonde heat wave who moved in on Hollywood from Chicago in 1953 as a vacationing model.

Since then she's melted the celluloid in six movies, proved she can look sexy in a suit of armor or encased in an empty pickle barrel and, more important, she has caught up with Marilyn Monroe in the profitable, stop, look and whistle league.

Marilyn, as a matter of fact, is Kim's real name—Marilyn Novak. Columbia changed it to Kim to avoid confusion with Miss Wiggle Hips. But like Marilyn, Kim is a package of pulchritude who zoomed to stardom quickly and easily. And just like Marilyn, she never wears anything constricting.

"I like comfort," she told me. "If I have nothing to hide, why hide it?"

PUSHOVER

First movie in which Kim made no attempt to hide anything was "Pushover" in 1954. Hollywood has been a pushover for her ever since.

The butter in the lobby popcorn machines sizzled when she played the fast and loose playgirl with Judy Holliday and Jack Lemmon in "Phffft." Then it was "Five Against the House" with Guy Madison.

Frank Sinatra's flipping over Kim in the current "Man With the Golden Arm." She's also been seen in "Picnic" and will appear as Tyrone Power's socialite wife in "The Eddy Duchin Story."

Even as a junior college student in Chicago, Kim was a heat wave. During a summer vacation she worked briefly as a dental assistant. Laughing about it now, she says:

"One day, the dentist's wife came in the office and the next day I lost my job. It took me a long time to figure out why."

But it didn't take Hollywood a long time to figure out that Kim was boxoffice bait despite her lack of dramatic training. She majored in drama at junior college but only succeeded in getting one role in one play, "Our Town." She walked on stage, said "hello" and walked off.

One look, though, was all Hollywood needed before sprinkling stardust on the daughter of Joseph Novak, who works for the Chicago-Milwaukee Railroad, and his wife, Blanche, a former schoolteacher.

That was in 1953 when Kim and three other models toured the country for a washing machine company. The tour ended in San Francisco. Kim came to Hollywood for a vacation and checked in with a local modeling agency for a possible job.

She found herself hired as one of 15 models in the Howard

KIM NOVAK... a torrid zone in Hollywood.

Hughes produced film, "The French Line." An agent, Louis Schurr, introduced her to Max Arnow, talent executive at Columbia, who introduced her to a screen test. The next man she met was a studio lawyer with a pen and a contract in his hand who said, "Sign here, please."

She signed and she's still mulling: "I still don't believe it. It's just too fantastic."

It's even more fantastic when Kim, who now dates Frank Sinatra and theatre chain owner Mae Krim, confesses about her early high school days. "Boys chased girls and girls chased boys," she says, "but nobody chased me."

Shy, diffident and even beligerent in her teens, Kim winces:

"Inky—real inky."

"I was tall, skinny and gawky. It hurts just to think about those days, even now, because I was so miserable."

But today's she's no product of the makeup department. When she took her screen test at Columbia there was the usual Hollywood talk about re-drawing her mouth, raising her eyebrows, dropping her eye-brows, toning down one curve, flaring out another. But a makeup man ended all the suggestions with:

"Look, in this case you can't improve on nature."

Kim Novak lives at the Hollywood Studio Club for Girls and hasn't let success go to her head. When asked recently, "How does it feel to be on the covers of so many magazines?" she replied:

"Inky—real inky."

Effective touches of humor were provided by Eve Smart. Other roles were pleasingly portrayed by Jean Christie, Barbara Whipple, Eva Byford and Regina Shanks.

CAREFUL WORK

Costumes were excellent and while some voices needed a little more projection, the whole production reflected the painstaking work of the director, Jane Leigh.

The charming fantasy, "The Maker of Dreams," by Oliphant Down, was gracefully and expertly acted by Evelyn North as Pierrette, Ken Smith as Pierrot, and Frank Watts as the dream maker. Setting, make up, costumes and lighting added greatly to the success of the production which was directed, with great attention to detail, by Nell North.

Eve Gray directed the third play, "The Dear Departed," by Stanley Houghton. This was a well-acted comedy done with highly convincing Lancashire dialect. The direction showed an understanding of comedy and effective characterizations were given by Pat Montgomery, Irma Shelton, David Smart, Eva Byford and John Gray.

In conclusion: This is a love story with an army background but is full of humor, some suspense and much charm.

For instance, when Ray is striving to obtain steel for the orphanage he is invited to partake of a cup of tea with the head of a Japanese steel firm and his colleagues. Through interpreter, Kimura, Ray informs him that he is very busy and can't wait. After they get outside Mitsudo informs him sadly that he has hurt the Japanese's feelings immeasurably because, by his declining the tea, he had informed the Japanese that he didn't like him. As it turns out the Japanese had wanted to give Ray the steel for his orphanage as a gift.

IN ADDITION TO THE enchanting love story the photography of "Three Stripes in the Sun" is excellent. Shots of the busy cities, of the countryside and the exotic Japanese gardens are of high order.

From an acting standpoint, Ray and Miss Kimura are entirely believable. Phil Carey, as Ray's CO, and Chuck Connors as the soldier Idaho are also good, as are Camille Janczarek, Henry Okada, Dick York and Tatsuo Saito.

In conclusion: This is a love story with an army background but is full of humor, some suspense and much charm.

Jaycees Plan Living Memorial To Honor Artist Tom Thomson

Funds Raised in Canada-Wide Campaign Will Improve 'Sad Lack' in Education

By WILLIAM DANE
Canadian Press Correspondent

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP)—If the dream of the Owen Sound Junior Chamber of Commerce is realized, this city will erect a living memorial to one of Canada's best-known painters, Tom Thomson, who died nearly 40 years ago.

The Jaycees have launched an ambitious, Canada-wide campaign to raise $125,000 to finance the project, and they have received the support of artists and art lovers from coast to coast. A special committee has been appointed to raise funds.

The Jaycees envision a Tom Thomson memorial art centre with a permanent director and classes for instruction in art. They feel Owen Sound is a logical location for such a memorial centre, not only because Thomson's boyhood years were spent here but also because this city on the south shore of Georgian Bay provides a scenic natural setting.

TO DEVELOP ARTISTS

The Jaycees have sent out thousands of brochures setting forth facts about Tom Thomson and the proposed memorial. Five thousand of these brochures are being sent out by the National Art Gallery to persons on the gallery's mailing list.

The entire sum of $125,000 will not be required to build the memorial, but the chamber feels that the money left over from the actual building project will be needed to finance instruction and maintenance at the centre during the first five years of its existence.

Many prominent Canadians are lending their names and their support to the project, but the Jaycees are well aware that the eventual success of the fund-raising campaign will depend on the response from the average citizen. One of the first contributions was $100 from Local 2469 of the United Steelworkers of America in Owen Sound.

Over a period of years Owen Sound has become intimately associated with Tom Thomson's name. Because Thomson's boyhood years were spent in this district, he has been claimed as a native son. Several of his family are living in Owen Sound. Thomson is buried at Leith, just a few miles north of this city.

DESIRE FOR LEARNING

The brochure declares: "The cultural life of Canada is rapidly expanding. New outlets through which, and by which, our young Canadian artists may express themselves must be developed. The desire to learn is ever present, the places of learning are sadly lacking."

"The Tom Thomson memorial art centre is being established as an art school, and a memorial to one of Canada's most outstanding artists."

Thomson's fame as an artist is widespread despite the fact that he had been painting seriously for only three years before he drowned in Canoe Lake in Algonquin Park in 1917. He was 29 years old. Among his best known paintings are The Jack Pine, The West Wind, The Northern River, and Bateaux.

Blowen Davies, in her "With Padilla and Palette," wrote: "No Canadian painter is so well known to the school children of Canada. To them he is both man and artist."

SOUGHT PERFECTION

Thomson was a perfectionist, seldom satisfied with his own work. Even after he had achieved considerable success he was dissatisfied with his paintings and would work almost endlessly on them, seeking improvement in a scene he had sketched.

The Jack Pine was painted after almost endless waiting for the right sky, the right clouds, the proper reflections, the right wind in the trees.

On several occasions he offered The West Wind to his Algonquin Park ranger, Mark Robinson, because the latter liked it. The painting now is valued at $12,000 as "The Second-Class C carriage," by Daumier.

Daumier Was Highly Popular As 19th Century Cartoonist

By COLIN GRAHAM
Curator Victoria Art Gallery

The Daumier scene reproduced here may well seem to readers another sample of one of my habitual critical perversities. It is not in the gallery's current show of Daumier lithographs, with which this article is concerned. It is not even a lithograph; it is a watercolor.

Why, then, show it here?

As puzzled readers sometimes ask why I indulge in this kind of irrelevancy when talking about shows current at the gallery, I ought in fairness to explain why I feel this is not entirely the issue of a misplaced sense of humor.

At the gallery we seldom get advance photos of pictures in our travelling shows, and we have found that press flash cameras are not adapted to the surprisingly tricky business of photographing works of art.

Lacking such photos, then, it has usually seemed better to reproduce magazine illustrations that have some bearing on my subject than not to show anything at all.

In the case of Daumier, for example, not everyone is familiar with his style or the general look of his work, and I feel most readers will agree that few things are more frustrating than reading about the productions of a painter when one hasn't the vaguest idea what those productions look like.

An illustration that helps the reader gain some idea therefore seems well justified, and I have a sufficiently low opinion of my literary capacities to be able to agree wholeheartedly with the Chinese gentleman who claimed that a picture is worth 10,000 words.

Daumier himself would certainly have been surprised had he been told that 150 years after his birth his lithographs would be the subject of exhibitions with critics discussing them as serious works of art. One can even see him drawing a caricature of critics so simple minded as to take his work solemnly.

Nevertheless, he was the most popular cartoonist of his day, and he must have had a fairly high opinion of his own talent, even if he never looked on the lithographs as full works of art. Ironically enough in the one department where Daumier took himself seriously, and justly so—that of oil painting—he was dismissed as of no importance by almost all his contemporaries. Nowadays we see easily enough how he fits into the European tradition of painting as one of its great exponents.

His lithographs—he drew thousands of them—were occasional pieces in the strict meaning of the word, designed for the moment as ephemeral essays in satire, and many were in fact too slight to be considered as works of art.

But in many instances they went far beyond the ephemeral. Whether he was dealing indignantly with the political follies of his day or the callous cruelties of the law courts, or probing indulgently the droll everyday stupidities of the human race, Daumier was apt to go beyond the momentary to touch deeper and often timeless issues.

We warm to him because his is the anger of the compassionate rather than the malicious satirist. He is a Swift, but without Swift's bitter gall. He could enjoy simple fun, too, as you will see from the predicament of the slim lady in the above watercolor.

When he gave form to his moral insights by means of his expressive command of line and his flair for dramatic contrasts of light and dark design masses, the results at their best were works of art probably unsurpassed in the history of journalistic illustration.

SCIENCE AND FAITH IN DOUBLE HARNESS

FAITH IS THE ANSWER, by Norman Vincent Peale, D.D., and Smiley Blanton, M.D. Prentice-Hall Inc., New York. 280 pages, $3.50.

As Dr. Vincent Peale's "Power of Positive Thinking" is having a long run on the best-selling list and "Faith Is the Answer," in which he teams with Dr. Smiley Blanton is a new and enlarged third edition, the last named is probably in for a good run too.

Readers are asked to believe that the inspirational powers of the doctor of divinity and the scientific experience of a distinguished psychiatrist have enabled them to pool their vast knowledge and experience to prove how you can really combine successfully the helpfulness of two healing arts: religion and medicine—or faith and psychology.

CASE HISTORIES

Dr. Peale preaches a series of short dictatorial sermons throughout the book to stress the value of faith.

Dr. Blanton, the psychiatrist, in supporting him, quotes a number of case histories. For instance, a mother suffering from shock took to her bed.

For six months after her husband, a Czarist army officer, had been shot, she was bedridden; "like a living corpse."

She had stomach ulcers, developed diabetes and had abdominal hemorrhages.

A peasant woman paid a call one day. "Think of your two children. It is your duty to live. It is the will of God," the peasant told her.

Mother though it over for several minutes; rose to her feet and said "I'll do the dishes son, you run out and play."

She carried on from that day; her physical ailments apparently disappeared, the case history says.

Well... readers have a choice.

They can either be very impressed or they can say to themselves: (1) mother didn't like housework, (2) mother couldn't afford a maid or, (3) mother was "swinging the lead."

This is followed by the story of the "Honest Gambler" who came of a very good family but operated several saloons and gambling houses.

Evangelist Sam Jones converted him; the gambler closed up his saloons, pored the liquor into the gutters.

That, says Dr. Blanton, was the result of an influence that had slumbered in the unconscious mind for years.

Then there's the story about the society editor who achieved success because she made so many mistakes. "Deliberate effort of her unconscious will to fail" was the reason. She got fired and found a better job in radio.

Between them the authors have all the answers.

If you like these samples you may find the book interesting. If you don't it will leave you cold.

All will agree the pastor and the psychiatrist have plenty of "answers to your problems of everyday living." Whether they can qualify as experts of "two great sciences" to give "satisfying" answers is a matter open to debate... very wide open.

BOOK TALK

Anecdotes, Information Jostle In Berton's Northland Saga

By JAMES SCOTT

I've seen this coming for quite a while, but there's nothing to do about it and anybody who wants to make a rude noise and say "I told you so," can go right ahead.

Yes, indeed, my friend Eric Nicol is, in the opinion of a most competent panel of judges, a very humorous man indeed. In fact, he is the man who, in 1955, wrote the funniest book published in Canada, a volume called Shall We Join the Ladies?

Among the fellows who made this momentous decision is a chap who wrote a book on hanging, an august head of a university English department and a distinguished West Coast publisher (not, I hasten to add, the publisher of Mr. Nicol's own paper). These three have awarded Shall We Join the Ladies the Leacock Medal for Humor.

This, I should add, is the second time Mr. Nicol has won the award: first time was in 1950 for The Roving I.

So now, even laughter is in a rut in Canada.

Meanwhile, Mr. Nicol, I understand, is on a trip around the world and I can't say that I blame him.

SON OF NORTH

And now back to that most favorite of all Canadian subjects, yes, you've guessed it, the Canadian North.

This time, it's The Mysterious North by Pierre Berton who is a son of the north himself and has never forgotten it. Indeed, it would seem from this volume that the North has such a fascination for him that all anybody has to do is pick up the telephone and say, "Pierre, old boy, how'd you like to run up to Baffinland after lunch?" and Mr. Berton (who obviously keeps a satchel packed in his office just in case he gets such a chance) will meet you at the airport ten minutes ahead of time.

At any rate, that's how he says this book got started and I'm ready to believe him. In fact, as far as I can see, that's how it got finished too, for it is one of the most breathlessly anecdotal books about the Canadian North I've ever read—and believe me, I've read a lot of them!

As a compendium of information and for sheer geographic comprehensiveness, this book is one of the best yet written about the North. I have no complaints whatsoever about the material in this volume. Some of it is important. Some is good for my soul (or at least my patriotism) to know something about the North.

But I don't think I should have seen this year.

MEN FROM THE SEA by K. M. Wallenius, Oxford University Press, Toronto. $4.50, 268 pages.

Men are never too old, though their teeth be awash, for adventure. So when tales are beautifully told as here, a deep chair by a golden fire means not only contentment but re-awakened pleasure.

This is a book of heroes, moving in their ships past black precipices and brooding gulls.

Told are five stories of Scandinavia and Finnish Lapland, excellently translated from the Finnish by Alan Blair.

Characterization is acute, and the personalities face the Arctic ruggedness with near-worship. Belief and love of the dazzling primitive land of the north, and its crushing ice, means the only path to survival.

Portrayed are sealers, trappers, sailors, ice pilots, fishermen.

PIERRE BERTON... a son of the North.

of it, is probably, interesting. But I object to books which read like serialized magazine articles, especially when the author seems to know only one way to write such an article.

Maybe it's just me, but I do get powerfully bored by having great gobs of information shoved at me with a quaint anecdotal gimmick which, I presume, is designed to make me glad I have learned something about the North Country.

GOOD FOR PATRIOTISM

Now I have learned quite a bit about the North before this book ever came out. And now, book ever came out. And now, so help me, I know even more about it. I don't object to this. I am willing to go along with Mr. Berton and assume it is good for my soul (or at least my patriotism) to know something about the North.

But I don't think I should have seen this year.

Sudeten Land Story Good First Novel

HOW MANY ANGELS by Charles E. Israel, Macmillan, Toronto. $2.75, 33 pages.

One picks up this novel, enjoys, and yet finishes it with a sense of inadequacy.

This is perhaps because it stirs dormant ideals, yet, while building the argument, fails to brew the solution which makes human behavior whiter than white.

That's the difficulty with good novels such as this; they can't say everything. So people like this reviewer have an occupational tendency to leap on the obvious "unsaid," and wear them to death.

This is Mr. Israel's first novel. It's sometimes fashionable to suggest on the basis of a first novel, if the words follow in any sort of sequence, that the work promises those to follow may be worth perusal.

This general assumption holds about as much truth as an empty confession, but the author of "How Many Angels" does deserve to be watched closely, as his first work is good—better than good judging by standards of run-of-the-press fiction.

Plot deals with the Sudeten German community in Czechoslovakia after the last war as it grinds down the life of humble, clumsy, hard-working and thoughtful Dr. Karl Rindl.

The story is one of much personal agony, relieved from time to time by poignant touches of beauty which somehow seep through to us even in the most difficult personal situations. The author has woven the two skillfully and with a sensitive pen—T.D.

MONTE ROBERTS

After an interview with an acknowledged authority on the subject, I can now tell the facts about sea monsters, monsters of the deep, and the United Undersea Saurians Protective Association.

My authority, as you can guess, is none other than Cadborosaurus, a sea monster and monster of the deep in his own right; the Pacific Coast representative of UUSPA; and an honorary, and hard-working member of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

I met Caddy, by pre-arrangement, at a secluded seaside spot not far from here, the exact location of which I am not permitted to reveal.

"What I am anxious to find out," I said to Caddy, "is why you won't hold still long enough to have your picture taken."

"Nothing would please me more than to have my picture taken, and thus tick your ever-loving newspaper for $300, but I am afraid I can't," Caddy replied.

"And why not?" I asked.

"It would not be in the best interests of the United Undersea Saurians Protective Association," he said, "as you will plainly see if you will listen."

The UUSPA, Caddy said, was formed many, many centuries ago.

As you must know, sea monsters which are sighted by sailors, tourists, and other sterling characters, are actually monsters of the deep who come up from the deep for a brief look around.

Now it so happens that monsters of the deep like it down in the depths, where it is quiet, the colors are soothing, and nobody has yet invented the atomic bomb or women's hats.

If you will read your encyclopedia, you will learn that many, many centuries ago sea monsters were being sighted all over the place. This was not because monsters of the deep LIKED to surge up to the surface and be seen as sea monsters; it was just that the demand was so great, the monsters of the deep felt they couldn't refuse.

But it is a long way up from the deep where the monsters live, and it is a very tiring journey.

So the UUSPA was formed, with the main objective of dividing sea monster duties evenly among the monsters of the deep.

The way this is done is to select one monster of the deep to serve a 50-year term as sea monster at large.

At the present time, I am serving the final years of my term, after which I can settle down in the deep for life.

As you must realize, it is impossible for a single sea monster to cover all the oceans of the world. Thus the UUSPA has authorized the hiring of stand-ins, to use the movie phrase.

Manta rays in the tropics, whales in the Arctic and Antarctic regions, and properly trained blackfish in North Pacific waters, make excellent stand-ins.

But if anyone took a picture of me, in person, this could be compared with the appearance of my various stand-ins. And the whole system, so carefully evolved by UUSPA would collapse.

"No pictures, then?" I said.

"No pictures," Caddy replied.

"Thank you, Mr. Cadborosaurus," I said, terminating the interview in traditional manner.

13-YEAR-OLD BOY AWARDED $35 PRIZE, HONORARY SHARE

Belmont High School Student Wins Totem Essay Contest

Patrick D. Warrington, 244 Kelly Road, 13-year-old Belmont High School student, won the essay contest sponsored by the Times on the legend of the world's tallest totem.

Patrick wins $35 as the first prize, along with an honorary share in the totem pole, for his essay which is printed below.

Second prize of $15 went to Joan Midlane, 11, 2440 Quadra

Street, of North Ward School; and third prize of $10 to Shirley Forscutt, Glen Lake, of Belmont High.

Belmont High pupils marched off with a majority of the other awards. They had made a school exercise out of the totem legend and worked together on doing the research and came up with some fascinating ideas interpreting the figures on the totem pole.

The list of winners of the $5 consolation awards follows: Lucille Hall, Langford; Georgina Hiscok, Langford; Harrie Bligh, Metchosin; Gilbert Taylor, Belmont High; Edwin Simpson-Baile, 1828 Montclair; Barbara Cushing, Florence Lake Road; Judith Fraser, Glen Lake, and Karen Jacobson, Langford.

Cheques will be mailed to the winners next week, along with honorary shares in the totem.

Mungo Martin, chief carver on the world's tallest totem project, is the only person who knows the actual legend recounted by the figures carved on the giant cedar.

It is known, however, that the totem recounts a Kwakiutl tribal legend, and that Mungo's own ancestors figure prominently in the tale. He will reveal it in Kwakiutl dialect with an approximate English translation, when the carving is finished.

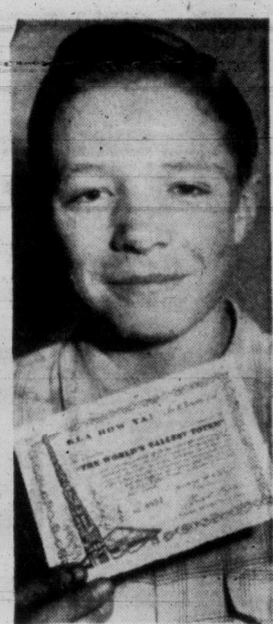

This is expected to be by the end of March, and plans are being made to have the pole in place for dedication ceremonies on April 29.

City council's parks committee is examining the merits of various sites for the pole. Among those which have been suggested are Mt. Tolmie, the inner harbor (either on the Legislative Buildings lawn or on the harbor side of Belleville Street), Thunderbird Park, or Beacon Hill Park.

Charles E. Craig, consulting architect on the project, and Stuart Keate, publisher of the Times, which is sponsoring the community effort, have spoken in favor of the Beacon Hill location.

Close to 8,000 shareholders are now on record. In addition to receiving share certificates, their names are to be listed on a giant scroll, to be installed at the base of the pole.

Preparation of the scroll will commence shortly. Shares are still available at the Times office, Fountain Circle; at the Broad street office, or by mail. Mail applications should be

THE WINNING ESSAY

By PATRICK WARRINGTON

Laktotpis, chief of the Kwagam tribe, was a great hunter and therefore was said to be possessed of the spirit of Ulgun, the wolf. Laktotpis and his tribe caught many kinsmen of Miguiti, the seal, and gave them to a neighboring tribe in exchange for olachen. Hosagamai, the son of Laktotpis, proved himself worthy of being chief by capturing many of the kinsmen of Tsawi, the beaver. He sewed the skins together, making a ceremonial robe for Laktotpis.

After the death of Laktotpis, Hosagamai became chief. While he and his tribe were fishing in the great salt water, Kwagam, the whale, thrashed his mighty tail, smashing one canoe and swamping the rest. Kasa, the sea otter, carried the men to shore on his back. When the Indians had landed, they found themselves in the domain of a hostile tribe. As the enemy was about to catch the men, Kwag, the eagle, blacked out the sun with his wings. In the ensuing turmoil, Hosagamai and his men escaped to the shore, where Glikan, the sea lion, carried them to their home.

Makinukw, the killer whale, invaded the seal-hunting grounds of the tribe. He destroyed so many seal that the trading of seal skins for olachen was seriously reduced.

Huhwhug, the mythical bird, was the bearer of evil news. One night the spirit bird descended upon Hosagamai, warning him that he would die in the near future. One moon later, when the Indians were fighting a hostile tribe, Hosagamai told Geeksem to stay near and protect him. Yet one stray arrow found its mark; Hosagamai was dead. With Geeksem as their chief, the Indians went into battle again and emerged victorious.

This story is being carved today in Thunderbird Park by Mungo Martin, a descendant of Geeksem.

Island Scouts Get Awards at Ceremony

By FREEMAN KING Times Staff Representative

VANCOUVER — Two Island scouts received awards here Friday at the annual meeting of the provincial council of the Boy Scouts' Association from Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross.

They were Robert Morris, 13, of Salt Spring Island, who last August rescued a nine-year-old boy from drowning, and Assistant District Commissioner W. J. K. Powell, Duncan, who received his award for 16 years' service as an active Scout leader.

Named president for the year was L. C. Way, Vancouver, re-elected. Vice-presidents named for the ensuing year were R. P. Clark, M. J. Foley and Stuart Keate.

Two former lieutenant-governors were present at the banquet, held in the Hotel Vancouver. They were the Hon. William Woodward and the Hon. Clarence Wallace.

Guest speaker was John Thurman, camp chief of Gilwell Park in England, international training centre for leaders in the Boy Scout movement.

Among speakers was Mrs. A. F. Wilks, deputy commissioner of the Girl Guides' Association. She said total membership in B.C. now totalled 47,000.

Mr. Ross said he was "looking forward" to presenting 200 Queen Scout awards in Victoria April 3.

Guest speaker, Mr. Thurman, said one of the prime needs of scouting was to insure that the best type of men and women were obtained to carry on high ideals of the movement.

Other officers named included treasurer, R. G. Miller; honorary counsel, Douglas McK. Brown, and provincial executive commissioner, R. Ken Jordan.

Named to the executive committee were R. D. Baker, Gerald M. Brown, K. F. Fraser, E. E. Gregg, Frank E. Hall, B. M. Hoffmeister, S. V. M. Isaacson, A. C. Petley Jones, M. A. Kent, Dr. D. F. Kidd, P. E. Radley, J. S. McLean, J. R. Pyper and D. P. Shepard.

Unification Report Delay Angers City

Toronto Firm Says Survey Findings Won't Be Ready Until End of April

Civic and business leaders responded angrily today to a letter from the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada in Toronto stating that no report on the amalgamation survey of Greater Victoria can be expected before the end of April—or even later.

The letter came from George Hougham, assistant director of the institute, who made a two-week survey of Greater Victoria last November to determine the feasibility of amalgamation.

The survey was jointly sponsored by Victoria Chamber of Commerce and the Junior Chamber of Commerce at a cost not to exceed $5,000.

Perturbed by the delay, Hector L. Crombie, managing secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, wrote to Mr. Hougham on Feb. 21 asking when a report on the survey could be expected.

He received Mr. Hougham's reply today.

OTHER JOBS

Mr. Hougham listed a number of other projects on which the institute was working, then said: "We are currently engaged in organizing the material we gathered—in-Victoria and hope to complete the survey by the end of April."

The letter added: "In the event that we run into any major snags the report may not be in your hands until a little after the deadline objective of the end of April."

Mayor Percy Scourrah, speaking as a member of the joint amalgamation committee, told The Times:

"I am very dissatisfied with this letter. It seems unreasonable that this survey should take six months to complete. I feel a strong protest is called for."

Mr. Crombie, speaking as secretary of the amalgamation committee, said:

"It seems most unfair that the institute should relegate our amalgamation survey to a minor role, while at the same time giving priority to assignments that were apparently given to them after our survey was started."

"We will certainly write to the institute conveying our thoughts as forcefully as possible."

Oak Bay Reeve F. E. Norris said he felt the delay in receiving the report might prejudice the amount of faith that would be placed in it.

He said it had been promised for the end of February, "... and everybody's been hanging fire."

"It seems to me they are awfully slow. They didn't appear to take too much information from our municipal officers and no attempt was made to make contact at the policy level," the reeve said with respect to the firm.

Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash was unavailable for comment. He is holidaying in Arizona.

DELAY PLANNING

Acting reeve of Saanich, Coun. George Austin, said he felt the delay in receipt of the amalgamation survey report would delay planning on various municipal matters as well.

He said planning for new sewers in Saanich could be affected by findings of the amalgamation survey and its effect on the district councils.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt said: "It's a pity it's being held up."

He said he though Esquimalt would be more interested in a scheme for setting up of a metropolitan area but the findings of the survey would be valuable in that regard also.

"Let's hope it's done right when they complete it."

Forrest L. Shaw is chairman of the joint amalgamation committee. With him are Mayor Scourrah and M. A. Kent representing the senior organization; Don Anderson, Eric Charman and Ira Hill, the Junior Chamber.

"I would certainly protest the treatment we are receiving," Ira Hill said. "We were promised this report by February. Putting it back another two months doesn't look as if the institute is too concerned about us."

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Will you please tell me when the name of Harrison Street was changed to Wychbury Avenue? Was Harrison Street named after any of former Mayor Harrison's family?

A.—You seem confused in your topography. Wychbury Avenue is in Esquimalt, running west from 432 Peters Street. Harrison Street is in Victoria, running north from 1321 Yates to Pandora Avenue. It was named after Eli Harrison, father of Claude Harrison, pioneer judge of Cariboo, later of Nanaimo and later for years a judge of Victoria, widely known in the early history of the province.

Q.—Will you please tell me a way to tan small animal skins?

A.—Tanning pelts is expert work. Furriers inform this column that while amateurs have formulas they use, certain requisites are omitted and experience has shown that the tanned, or partly tanned pelts rarely last as much as five years. Their suggestion is that anyone wishing a permanent piece of work on a highly prized pelt it be sent to a firm with an established reputation.

YOU SAID TO ME--

A Sunday message of help and comfort for those puzzled, depressed or low in spirit.

BY ETHEL TULL

You said to me "I want to discipline myself in this Lenten season, but I have not made up my mind what I should give up."

Some of us were talking recently about this matter of discipline, and the whole question of self-indulgence, and one said, "Isn't it strange that we seem to think so much of giving up for a time nice things like eating candy or going to shows or dances, and not of ridding our lives for ever of the really nasty things like fears and worries, bad temper, dishonesty, impurity, selfishness, and lack of love?"

Well, of course, when we thought it over, we knew that it is much easier to sacrifice some material pleasure (though this discipline is very good for one) than to ask the Holy Spirit to search deep down into our hearts to show us our sins and to tell us what we ought to do about them. To obey might cause us real suffering.

Years ago, there came a crisis in my own life, and I began to know a little more of what it meant to try to follow Christ. It meant for me a different way of praying, and I learned to be quiet and listen to God's answers through my thoughts. Then He was able to show me how false my sense of values was. Very gradually—for I have been slow to learn—I have come to be deeply ashamed of some of the things in my life, of which I was once most proud. The standards of Christ were held up to me—absolute honesty, purity, unselfishness, and love—an ideal unattainable by human heart in its own power, but "with God all things are possible." The fight against evil in God's world is on, friend of mine; you and I must be in it.

NEWS OF CHURCHES

Oak Bay Observes 30th Anniversary

Oak Bay United Church congregation tomorrow will observe the 30th anniversary of the Union of the Hampshire Road Methodist Church and the St. Columba Presbyterian Church.

The congregation has a growing membership and now stands at about 600 with a Sunday school enrolment of around 500 led by a staff of teachers under the superintendence of A. R. C. Hobden.

Special preachers for the anniversary services on Sunday are the Rev. A. I. Higgins of First United, recently of McKay United Church, Ottawa, in the morning and the Rev. Ernest W. McQuarrie formerly of Westminster Church, Saskatoon, and now chaplain at Esquimalt, in the evening.

The anniversary dinner will be on Monday evening at 6.30 with C. A. Gibbard, principal of Oak Bay High School, as chairman, and the Rev. A. Higgins as speaker. Greetings will be brought by Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunn of St. Mary's and the Rev. E. W. McQuarrie.

In Centennial United Church the minister, Rev. Douglas B. Carr, will preach at the morning service, his sermon topic being "Sold Out," fourth in Lenten series: "The Seven Last Days of Jesus." The time of the evening service for this Sunday only, will be changed from 7.30 to 4.00 p.m., at which time the sacred cantata "Song of Miriam" will be presented by the choir.

Rev. Emma M. Smiley will speak at both the services at the Victoria Truth Centre. In the morning her subject will be "Is Jesus the Son of God?" and in the evening "The Sins of the Fathers."

The services at St. Andrew's Presbyterian will be conducted by the minister, the Very Rev. erend J. Lewis W. McLean, M.A., D.D., The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed at morning worship and at a shortened service following evening worship. In the morning Dr. McLean will speak on the subject, "He Ascended Into Heaven," the tenth in a series on "The Christian Creed." In the evening the sermon subject will be "Forgiveness and the Cross."

At Metropolitan United Dr. James is speaker at the morning service, the sermon title, "I Believe in Jesus Christ." Rev. E. Laura Butler speaks in the evening, on "The Cross and the Suffering Servant."

Canon Biddle will be the preacher at both services at St. John's Anglican Church. His topic in the morning will be "As Found in Him" and at 7.30 p.m., "In God We Trust." There will be services of Holy Communion at 8 and 9.30 a.m.

Rev. R. McElroy Thompson, D.D., preaches on "The Cross of Christ" at the morning service at First United Church. In the evening Rev. A. I. Higgins, B.A., B.D., preaches on "The Compelling Question."

Church by the Lake Now Baptist Body

Elk Lake Baptist community church this week changed its status from a congregation to an organized body under the Baptist Convention of B.C.

The church also is known as the Church by the Lake. Forty members were received into the fellowship.

The church started 10 years ago as a Sunday school in the home of Miss Minnie Beveridge on Alderly road. This accommodation soon became too small and property was bought on East Saanich road at Elk Lake.

A covered basement was built with the aid of the First Baptist church, Victoria, at a cost of $5,000.

In May, 1955, the congregation moved into a $15,000 church on the same site. Minister is Rev. J. N. Clark. Moderator of the board is R. N. MacIntosh; clerk, Leonard Winterburn, and treasurer, D. Petrie.

In the dividing of the Greater Victoria Girl Guide Association, the Lady Douglas Division will have as leaders, from the left: District Commissioners Mrs. J. Cudmore, Mrs. H. Duffon, Mrs. A. Irwin and Division Commissioner Mrs. C. Hugh Sendey.

Gonzales Division has named their leaders as follows: Left to right, Mrs. F. G. Maurice, district commissioner; Mrs. Keith MacDougall, division commissioner, and Mrs. J. Hunter, district commissioner. The two groups will share an executive committee.

Greater Victoria Girl Guides Divide Into Two Main Groups

It was announced at the annual meeting of the Greater Victoria Division of the Girl Guides Association held this week at headquarters, that "guiding having grown in Victoria to a total of 1,129, it has been found necessary to divide the work by making two divisions."

To commemorate two of the earliest guide companies in Victoria, the new divisions are to be named the Gonzales Division and the Lady Douglas Division.

Gonzales Division will include east, central and Cedar Hill districts, under Commissioner Mrs. Keith MacDougall, assisted by Mrs. L. Shiers, East; Mrs. J. Hunter, Central and Mrs. F. Maurice, Cedar Hill.

Treasurer will be Mrs. R. Brooks; secretary, Mrs. J. Arnold; Brownies, and Golden Hand, Mrs. G. H. Westinghouse, and badges, Mrs. P. Watt.

The Lady Douglas Division will include west, north and south districts under Commissioner Mrs. H. Sendey assisted by district commissioners Mrs. G. M. Cudmore, West; Mrs. M. Irwin, North and Mrs. P. Duffon, South.

The treasurer will be Mrs. Sharp; secretary, Mrs. H. C. Baylay; Brownies, Mrs. G. H. Evans; badges, Mrs. Duffon and Golden Hand, Mrs. K. Sharples.

The two divisions will work with Mrs. Rowe and Mrs. Westinghouse as divisional trainers; Mrs. H. Piedt and Miss De Kelder, camp; Mrs. H. E. Harris, international; Miss L. Warne, first class; Mrs. D. Lawson and Mrs. T. Bell, guide hall and Mrs. F. B. Rawlings, publicity.

Mrs. MacDougall presided at the annual meeting and Mrs. Rowe was in charge of the color party.

Each district reported on good turns done by guide companies and brownie packs, including help given by guides at the surplus food stall; visits made to hospitals with flowers and gifts and to sing carols; a parade float and remembering children in the Indian hospitals at Nanaimo and Alert Bay.

District commissioners spoke of work of local associations who helped with many of the activities of the division.

A successful coat hanger drive to raise money for the Cabana Fund was conducted by North District which also wrapped gifts for children in the Orphanage.

Brownie pack of this district sent badges and supplies to Ottawa Brownies who lost everything in Hurricane Hazel.

Sea rangers now own a canoe, a rowboat and a whaler, Miss Warne reported. Land rangers sold programs at hockey games in aid of the Orphanage and scored for the Blind Bowling League, Miss D. Stocken said. A Trofoil Guild was formed of ex-guides during the past year, Miss Stocken also reported. Mrs. Alan Morkill reported for the camp committee and Mrs. Piedt announced there had been 13 different camps held, making a total of 387 on the campsite.

Mrs. J. Simons spoke on guiding in the past; Mrs. D. Branter talked "joy" of guiding. A thanks badge was presented to the division treasurer, Mrs. R. Brooks by Mrs. MacDougall.

Highlights in the past year were visits of HRH the Princess Royal and the Chief Guide Lady Baden Powell, also a spring field day and the visits of two girl scout troops from the United States.

Jocelyn Marshall Wed On Friday in Ottawa

Miss Jocelyn Scott Marshall became the bride of Mr. Hans Moller Friday evening in a ceremony in Chalmers United Church, Ottawa, Ont. Rev. J. D. McCrae, B.A., D.D., officiated for the daughter of Lt.-Cmdr. and Mrs. J. H. Marshall, 985 Oliver Street, Victoria, and the son of Mrs. Bodil Thamsen, Copenhagen, Denmark, and the late Dr. G. A. Moller.

As the bride entered the church, organist, Mr. William France, Mus. B., FCCO, played traditional wedding music. Mr. Charles J. Marshall gave his sister in marriage.

For the ceremony, the bride wore a gown of midnight mist shot taffeta fashioned with long torso line, and cocktail-length full skirt. Her hat was of plum-colored velvet, and her flowers, in a colonial bouquet, were red roses and white hyacinth.

Mrs. Betty MacNeill was only attendant. She was gowned in a champagne-colored dress fashioned on princess lines with a cocktail-length skirt. Her hat was of pink velvet leaves, and she carried a colonial nosegay of gladioli and hyacinth.

Best man was Hugh O'Connor.

Following a reception dinner party at Chateau Laurier, the bridal couple left for a honeymoon trip to be spent in the Laurentians, P.Q.

Mr. and Mrs. Moller will live at 210 Chapel Street, Ottawa.

Children To Receive Names This Sunday

Christ Church Cathedral will be scene of a christening on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock when the three children of Mr. and Mrs. John Davis, 1809 Foul Bay Road, will receive their names. The sisters, six years and two and a half years, will be christened Sherry Lee and Debra, and their 17-month-old brother will be named Stephen. Godparents will be Mr. and Mrs. George Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Clough, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. L. Davis, Mrs. C. O. Rivers, Mrs. H. Curran and Miss L. Leckie-Ewing. Grandparents of the children are Mr. and Mrs. M. Davis of Vernon, B.C., and Mr. and Mrs. F. G. H. Lewis of South Devon, England.

Montreal's Only Woman Minister Says Work Includes Social Service

MONTREAL (CP)—Nettie Wilson has a unique job as far as this city is concerned but her career is not unusual in her family.

Miss Wilson is Montreal's only woman minister, but she is the daughter of a minister and a deaconess, and her brother, two uncles and several cousins are clergymen.

Now, after six months as assistant minister at one of the largest downtown churches, St. James United, the 28-year-old Miss Wilson finds her post is a combination of religious and social welfare work.

ACTIVE WORKER

As well as assisting at Sunday services and running a weekly "friendship hour" for young folk, along with a group for young adults Miss Wilson spends several hours a week interviewing and giving help to many of the poor and needy.

"In this section of our work, we cater for all denominations," Miss Wilson said in an interview.

Miss Wilson decided to take a theological course because she knew of the shortage of young recruits into the church. She says it will take time before all the barriers are down against women in her profession. "But," she said, "when the time comes for women's equality with men to be recognized, the world will be a better place."

After training at Emmanuel College, Toronto, Miss Wilson took charge of a country circuit at Holland Centre, Ont. Later, she took a similar post at Kilsyth, Ontario.

"I would still be there except that I received invitations from four churches in different cities, and I decided that work in a city would be good experience for whatever church I finally settled down in," she says.

ROLE FOR WOMEN

Miss Wilson feels that women ministers should play as effective a part in the church as their men counterparts.

Although members of the congregation have on the whole accepted her as "assistant minister" rather than just "a woman," Miss Wilson recalled that she had quite a job one day convincing a bridegroom that his marriage would be legal if she went ahead and performed the ceremony.

Future plans in the church's life in which Miss Wilson expects to perform useful work are facilities for working girls living near St. James church; a nursery where working mothers can leave their babies during the day; and a room where old folk would be welcome.

"Meantime, we are pretty busy with our present program, but we are trying to carry through two new schemes a year," she said.

MEETS OTHER WORKERS

Ordained six years ago, Miss Wilson is one of 30 women ministers in the United Church, the only denomination in Canada to ordain women. She is the only woman minister in Quebec province, though she does get together once a month with other women religious workers in the city, including deaconesses, missionary teachers and religious education workers.

Miss Wilson doesn't agree that women ministers should follow their men colleagues in dress. "I have had something more feminine designed for me to wear in church—not quite so flowing and more fitting at the back than the usual black gowns," she said.

VICTORIANS IN HOUSE PARTY PLANNING JUNKET OVERSEAS

Mr. and Mrs. V. Bowman, Mrs. J. A. Cotterell and Mr. W. H. Gropp are Victorians included in a unique "house party" of 50 retired employees of the Canadian Pacific Railway and their wives who leave Vancouver next Thursday for a three-week tour of Great Britain. Travelling in a special section of the trans-continental "Dominion," the party will pick up fellow pensioners in the several stops across Canada. They will sail on the Empress of France from Saint John, N.B., on March 20. The majority of the party will return on the same ship sailing from Liverpool on April 6. Archie Sturrock, of North Burnaby, president of the Canadian Pacific Pioneers' Social and Service Association, who will head up the contingent, with his wife as general secretary to the party, said the unique "outing" would cover 32 days and take the group from Liverpool to Glasgow via the lake district and Carlisle; to Edinburgh, via Trossachs; Edinburgh to Chester, via Jedburgh, Hawick, Carlisle, Preston and Warrington; to Stratford-on-Avon, via Shrewsbury and Worcester, and visits to Shropshire County and London.

Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to Victoria Branch of the Canadian Arthritic and Rheumatism Society who are assisting with arrangements for the annual tea on March 17. Include, left to right, Mrs. G. J. Jackson, Mrs. Gordon Cameron, Mrs. T. F. Rose, Mrs. E. C. Carson and Mrs. Bruce Humber.

C.A.R.S. Auxiliary Plans Annual Spring Tea

On Wednesday afternoon, March 21, members of the Women's Auxiliary to Victoria Branch of the Canadian Arthritic and Rheumatism Society will hostess their annual spring tea in the Oak Bay Hotel.

Auxiliary president, Mrs. C. L. Aylard, will receive guests and tea arrangements are being convened by Mrs. E. C. Carson, assisted by Mrs. T. F. Rose.

Presiding at the tea table will be Mrs. T. L. McMaster, Mrs. C. Y. Brown, Mrs. R. Anderson and Mrs. Elliot Brown.

During the afternoon a program of songs will be given by John Dunbar, accompanied by Mrs. A. G. Rogers.

Wicker Springtime Purses Trimmed With Tinted Shells

By PENNY SAVER

When wicker purses arrive in town, I know that Spring is on the way for sure. And I found the gayest tinted wicker purses of the season downtown today. All over the top of one were clusters of tinted shells sprinkled with gold dust. Doesn't that sound luxurious! This basket-purse opens from either side of the over-the-top handle, and is shown in either white or natural. In a stained tan you'll see a flat-topped purse with a one-hinge opening. On the top is a cornucopia, from which flows a wealth of tiny musical instruments. Musical signs in bright-colored felt are tacked on with brilliant studs. All a-glitter to matching and complement the wonderful new spring clothes that are all over town. These purses are $5 and $7.50.

Jewelry meant especially for casual and sports wear is being shown right in the sportswear department of a local store. Match bracelets, earrings, necklaces and pendants to your skirts and sweaters without having to bob from one department to another carting the clothes. Straight from New York is this collection of beauties. One bracelet that fascinated was made of a series of different-colored clear, square cut stones in an antique setting alternating with square cut, nubby costume pearls. On each of the bright stones is a sign of the zodiac. Amber, emerald, pink, turquoise and sapphire colored stones made up the bracelet, and matching pink stone earrings completed the set, which costs $5.95.

Other pins that are just the right size, to neatly clip your scarf just where you want it, tailored look, you'll prefer the are also shown in antique settings. Tiny pearls in any one of four different settings are yours for $1.95.

This jewelry is so rich-looking that it's hard to believe that the price range is from $1.95 to $10.95.

Very plain, smart closed-in pumps dressed up with a spark of color or glitter on the front are being shown in the latest fashion mags. If you have some plain pumps that you'd like to give this new—or I should say—revived look, the clip-on shoe accessories I found will do the trick.

A strip of white, black, pink or blue lustre leather has a smart design of pearls and beads, and will clip neatly to your shoe by the thin metal clip. Leather or suede in all the popular shades decorated with beads are also in the long narrow shape. A petal burst in lustre grey will make those afternoon-tea shoes fit for an evening of dancing. For that scarf just where you want it, tailored look, you'll prefer the are also shown in antique settings. Tiny pearls in any one of four different settings are yours for $1.95.

This jewelry is so rich-looking that it's hard to believe that the

In Step With Style

By NONA DAMASKE

Spring and Summer Presentation in Nylon—Anyone who has the remotest interest in fashion must now realize that the slim sheath is the highlight of the coming season. Lingerie manufacturers have followed this trend very closely and have decreed that slender silps are a must beneath sheaths. For milady who wants her lingerie frilly and sleek there is no lack of femininity. Trimming is there but kept flat so that the silhouette is not disturbed. For this reason, flat appliques of Swiss embroidery, pleat and lace trimmings are popular.

A particularly stunning sheath pettiskirt in the Harvey Woods collection is shown in three outstanding shades... almond glow... blue jade and tropical pink. This half slip is perfectly straight with small slits at the hemline of each side seam. This yummy pettiskirt is completely encircled from waist to hemline with rows of gorgeous black lace. Just picture the tropical pink with navy, the turquoise with black and the almond glow peeking beneath your beige tone dress or suit. Almond glow, a beige-to-cognac color with a touch of pink, is a very new shade and is shown also in full length slips, gowns and peignoirs.

There are many co-ordinated sets in this manufacturer's line and they have such interesting names as Magic Flute, Rose Ruffle, Fantasia and Floral Bouquet. The gowns in these sets are exquisite and here fullness is very evident with lavishly trimmed wide skirts.

The oriental influence is seen in a short pyjama with a mandarin neckline edged in lace. The jacket has side slits and the short pants are cut with a straight leg which is also slashed at the sides. There are baby doll short pyjamas which have a round neck with lace and bow trim. Matching brief panties have elasticized flared leg.

For the bride there's a new matching set of slip petticoat, gown and matching peignoir in white. Named "Floral Bouquet" the feature of the set is an embroidered floral basket trim, highlighted with color in jonquil, pink or blue. The slip has an embroidered bodice backed by orange fabric. The flared petticoat is made of two tiers of nylon, the top, sheer fabric, outlined with embroidered floral baskets and edged with a layer of fine Vail type lace. The luxurious gown has an overskirt of 15 denier embroidered nylon tulle. Nylon velvet, set in a strip of nylon sheer with a lace edging, makes the shoulder straps and matching velvet ties are used at the waist. The peignoir has a dropped shoulder with a push-up sleeve with shirred elastic.

This new lingerie collection has a definite flair and whether you are interested in trousseau lingerie or just want some new "pretties" you will be intrigued by the choice of color and style.

This Harvey Woods nylon slip belongs to everyone... short... average and tall. Dainty lace and delicate fluting fall straight and slim... a perfect slip for your spring and summer sheath dress.

"Rose Ruffle" by Harvey Woods is a sweetly feminine slip with lace shoulder straps and trimmed bodice. The deep hem flounce has three rows of lace on 15 denier tulle.

TODAY'S RECIPE

GREEN LIME SHERBERT DESSERT

Half cup hot water, 1 teaspoon finely grated lime rind, 4 teaspoons Sucaryl solution or 32 tablets crushed, 1/2 cup lime juice, 1 cup cold water, 1/2 teaspoon green food coloring, 1 cup evaporated milk. To hot water in saucepan, add lime rind and Sucaryl. Cover and simmer over low heat 3 minutes. Remove from heat and add lime juice, cold water and coloring. Blend in milk, stirring gently. (Mixture will curdle slightly). Strain into freezing tray to remove rind, and freeze until almost firm. Loosen from tray and put into a large chilled mixer bowl. Break into small pieces with a fork. Then beat on low speed until creamy. Return to tray or freezer carton at once. Freeze until firm. Makes eight servings.

Each contains: 45 calories if made with Sucaryl, 189 calories if made with sugar.

Canadian Shrimp Puff Good In Special Lenten Meals

Appealing both to the eye and palate is Canadian Shrimp Puff, which extends the servings of a seafood favorite in an economical casserole dish. Enriched bread, milk, eggs, and chopped green pepper, provide an interesting contrast in flavor and texture, when combined with the fresh plump shrimps.

The individual casseroles simplify serving and remain piping hot, making them acceptable for buffet meals or Sunday night guest suppers. Crisp, crusty rolls, tossed green salad, and a baker's tart fruit pie complete a menu that's sure to become an oft-repeated favorite during the lenten season, and for many months after.

Here is the simple recipe for this interesting seafood combination:

4 cups of soft enriched bread crumbs; 1 teaspoon salt; 1/4 teaspoon pepper; 1/4 teaspoon paprika; 3 eggs, beaten; 2 cups milk; 1 1/2 cups chopped, cooked shrimps; 4 whole cooked shrimp for garnish; 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper.

Junior Charter Presented

First junior chapter to be formed by the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire in Victoria in the past 10 years received its charter in an impressive ceremony in the St. Patrick street home of Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Downard on Friday evening.

Victoria Municipal Chapter regent, Mrs. J. L. Gates, presided, and the Municipal standard was carried by Mrs. A. W. Pitkethley.

Regent of the new junior chapter is Mrs. Freethy, a member of Royal Bride Chapter, the last junior group to be formed in the city and now a primary chapter. Name chosen for the new group is Oakleaf Chapter, and its motto is "Tall Oaks From Little Acorns Grow."

Municipal Chapter organizing secretary, Mrs. T. Lumsden, presented the red, white and blue ribboned charter to Mrs. Freethy.

IMPRESSIVE CHARGE

"To you as regent-officers and members of the Oakleaf Chapter, I commit the keeping of this charter of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire," Mrs. Lumsden said, "and in so doing I solemnly enjoin upon you the obeying and maintaining in your chapter of the by-laws, statutes and constitution of the order, and the continuous upholding in your selves and others of the loyalty to British ideals and duty to God, Queen and country."

"Let the true spirit of patriotism guide your energies in all that tends to the realization of our beloved country of those high aims toward which she strives."

"To you officers and charter members, is given the great privilege of laying the foundations of this chapter, on which its future value to this community shall rest."

"May God grant you the strength, wisdom and courage to be equal to your great opportunities and to cherish always in your hearts your Imperial

'I DECLARE I AM A LOYAL SUBJECT ...'

Twenty teen-age girls stood quietly and repeated in unison the affirmation of the IODE Order when the new junior Oakleaf Chapter received its charter Friday evening. The regent, Mrs. W. R. Freethy, second from left, led the group. Officers include, front row,

motto: One Flag, one Throne, one Empire."

The young girls repeated in unison the affirmation of the order and Mrs. Lumsden presented the charter to Mrs. Gates, who in turn introduced members to Mrs. R. H. Spilsbury, fourth vice-president of Provincial Chapter, who gave Mrs. Freethy a gavel.

FLAG DEDICATED

Rev. Douglas B. Carr dedicated the new chapter's flag, Mrs. H. Hadfield, regent of the sponsoring Royal Bride Chapter, donors of the flag, presented it for dedication, and the young standard bearer, Sue Martin, accepted it.

MR. HUGH KELSO

As an inaugural feature, Mr. Harrison announces the presentation of the famous COURTAULDS-SANDERSON

ANCESTRAL COLLECTION. As advertised, these fabrics are a masterpiece of color and design, selected from famous ancient homes of Britain, recreated with all the intricacy of weave and the clear, glowing color of the originals.

The ageless beauty of these ancestral fabrics is the inspiration behind the Courtaulds-Sanderson Collection. Among them is a resplendent reproduction from a magnificent 18th Century Utrecht

Velvet from the salon of Holkham Hall;

a Chinese Silk Brocade from Highclere

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

North's first bid of two hearts, a jump bid, may startle some readers. North knew that his nine points opposite a vulnerable takeout double would probably be enough for game. The jump response indicated that North hoped for a game.

Incidentally, many experts consider such a jump response only in a vibrational rather than forcing game. If North wants to insist on a game he must outbid the enemy's suit. In this case, for example, North would make a cue-bid of two clubs if he had 11 points or more.

The game in spades is easily made if South protects himself in the defenses. The defenders start off with three rounds of clubs, and South is put to the test at the third trick.

After South has discarded a heart, the defenders are powerless. If East leads a fourth club, dummy can ruff with the 5 or 10, for dummy will overtrick safely. Declarer can then draw trumps and take his good tricks.

If East leads anything but a club, it is even easier for declarer to draw all of the trumps and run the good tricks.

$7,000 MACHINE BOUGHT TO CARRY OUT $3.50 JOB

Deadly Accurate Grinder First on Island

BY DON INGHAM

One of the most advanced surface grinders on the market, and certainly the only one of its type on Vancouver Island, has been installed by Whitaker and Revercomb Ltd. in its shop at 840 View Street.

Purpose of machine is to smooth the humps and hollows out of motor surfaces which are supposed to be flat—absolutely flat.

This is achieved as follows: The block is stripped completely, then placed in the machine. A deadly accurate bubble level that will give readings in thousands of an inch is used to true the motor, then the operator presses a switch.

Immediately a broad grinding wheel begins slow travel across the surface to be ground. It works automatically, and stops when the amount of metal decided on by the operator has been removed.

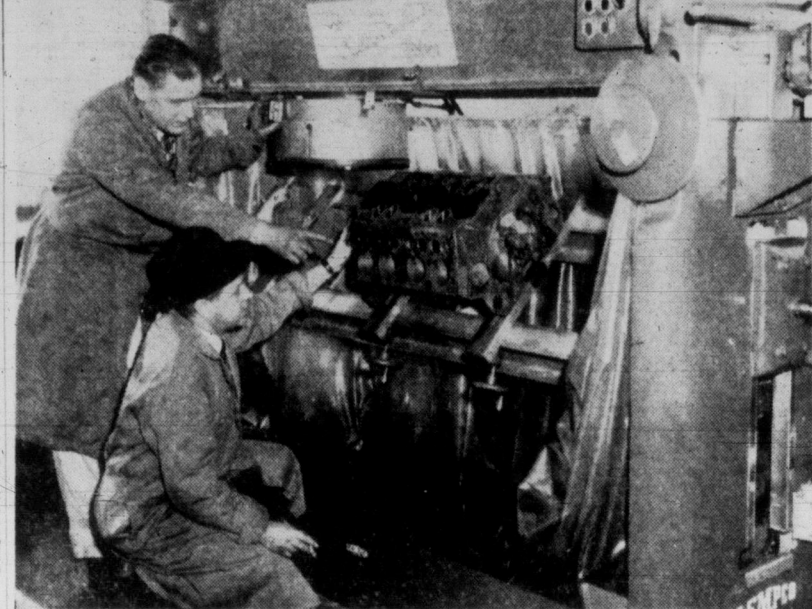

Now the block is true, and will remain true because it was ground while resting in a jig that held it tightly without stresses, thus eliminating distortion.

The machine was set up by Bill Nunn of Seattle, Pacific Northwest representative of the manufacturer in Bedford, Ohio, and is accurate to "one-half thousandth of an inch."

Ed Cuppige, sales manager for the firm, said the machine could be used to grind any flat surfaces, such as heads, blocks, manifolds, differential cases, and others.

"The modern automobile engine demands this kind of accurate work to function properly," he said. "Motors are much more powerful today, made to closer tolerances, and they work under high stress. Old-fashioned standards won't do any more, which is why we have spent $7,000 to be able to do a $3.50 job."

BILL NUNN, kneeling, and JACK RUNDELL, who will operate new Whitaker & Revercomb surfacer, check eight-cylinder engine block before grinding. Work remains motionless while abrasive wheel moves.

LONDON (Reuters).—British bookmakers will be able to open off-the-track betting bureaus under proposed changes in gambling laws announced in the House of Commons Friday.

Weather Gets Blame for Unemployment

Unsettled weather has delayed the early speed-up in employment in the Greater Victoria area.

C. A. Mudge, manager of the National Employment Office, said today volume of work in the area "has been particularly good throughout the winter."

But he said "the unsettled weather over the past few weeks has delayed the expected early speed-up which indicates the start of the new season's work."

"In most years, the annual reduction in the number of unemployed persons starts two or three weeks earlier," said Mr. Mudge.

Snow and cold this week was held responsible for several small layoffs, resulting in an increase in unemployed for the week of 113.

"The total unemployed still remains lower than the season's high figures which were reached on Feb. 9 and 23," said the NEO manager.

Despite recent situation, Mr. Mudge predicts labor shortages in some job classifications shortly as a result of steady demands for carpenters, electricians, and auto mechanics.

The weather caused a slump in retail sales and various services during the past week. This resulted in a sharp drop in the demand for salespersons, particularly women.

IN AWARD-WINNING PLAY

Congratulations are shared by Ross Maconachie and Carol Smithson from cast of "The Shock of His Life," Oak Bay Junior High play named for tonight's school drama honor performance at Victoria High School.

Maybe Harry Doesn't Care

BICESTER, England (Reuters).—British soccer player Harry Harrison was banned from the game for life Friday—for winning £27,000 on a soccer pool. The Oxfordshire County Soccer Association ruled that Harrison, a non-professional, could not play again because he violated a rule prohibiting players and officials from taking part in Britain's soccer lotteries.

IT'S YOUR MOVE
By Millard Hopper
Long Time Open Checker King
White has Black stumbling over his own men. White moving up the board, moves first to win in four moves. How quickly can you finish the game?

SEEKING LIGHT?
"Well, what do you think of our new Army searchlight? It makes a complete revolution in 10 seconds and covers a five-mile circle," said the general.
"In the Navy, we have a searchlight that covers a 10-mile circle," replied the admiral.
Revolving at the same rate of speed as the Army light, how long would it take the Navy light to make a complete revolution?

"I divided $16.00 among my children yesterday," said Anderson. "None of them got less than $4.00 and two of them received the same amount."
"So what," said I, feeling bored.
"Just in case you want to figure out how many children I have and how much I gave to each one," he replied.
"But how can I on that flimsy information?" I said, growing more impatient.
"Well, I suppose I ought to tell you that the product of the various amounts I gave to each of them equals the number of square inches in a certain number of square feet. That's enough information for you to figure with, isn't it?"
Can you figure out how many children Mr. Anderson had, and how much money he gave to each?

ROUND NUMBERS
A large city's telephone directory lists a total of 1,708 names beginning with the words National, World and Universal. The number beginning with National is 30 less than four times the number beginning with Universal; and the latter exceeds by 176 the number beginning with World. How many are there of each?

At birth baby antelope weigh from five to six pounds and stand about 16 inches high. They gain nearly a pound a day for the first few days.

COLORGRAPH
To bring forth the colorful outdoor scene hidden in the diagram at right, color the drawing with crayons or colored pencils according to the following color indicators: B-Blue, G-Green, Y-Yellow, R-Red, P-Pink, V-Violet, Br-Brown, Bk-Black. Use red lightly to make pink, if you do not have a pink crayon available.

This Is So Confusing
Ordinary mazes are enough to drive one dotty, but this one's worse. You'll see why when you study the diagram above. In it, you are to select an entrance and trace a course to an exit with these requirements: You must touch a black dot; then a white dot, or vice versa, throughout your course. You cannot turn back or cross your path at any point.

BRAINTEASER
A 154-pound halibut landed by red and reel near Pacific City, Ore., is believed to be a record catch for that fish.
West Berlin has a swimming pool for dogs.

Place Three in a Row
Transfer the numbers in the circles above to the boxes, squares or cells so that the total of the three numbers in each row, horizontal or vertical, will equal 135.

OUT OUR WAY
MOM, WILL YOU LOOK AT THIS? I'VE FOUND A QUARTER! IT'S DATED 1940! I DON'T LOOK AT IT BUT IT READS 'IT BY FEELIN' IT WITH MY TOES AN' IF IT'S RIGHT I'LL TRY A DIME!
YOU'D BE BETTER OFF READING SOMETHING THAT USES YOUR HEAD--AND IT AMAZES ME THAT YOU AREN'T OUT SEEING HOW FAST YOU CAN SPEND THE QUARTER AND DIME!

BOARDING HOUSE
ESAD, MEN! THAT CHAP McCracken is a pushover! NO SKILL AT ALL! BUT JUST AS I WAS ABOUT TO PIN HIM TO THE MAT, MY SHOES CAME LOOSE AND I SLIPPED! HE DOWNED ME BY SHEER LUCK!
WHAT MYSTIFIES ME IS HOW DID YOU GET DISMANTLED THAT MUCH IN ONE MINUTE, SEVENTEEN SECONDS?
HE MUSTA JERKED YOU OUTA YOUR SHOES AND SOCKS, TOO! ALL HE DIDN'T DO WAS DISSECT YOU!

BENNETT, PM TALK PRIVATELY ON TAXES

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent and Premier Bennett of British Columbia today conferred on tax arrangements between B.C. and the central government following Friday's federal-provincial fiscal conference.

Mr. Bennett said later it was a "free and open" discussion but declined to say whether he brought up the question of major changes in the federal tax-sharing offer as he proposed Friday.

However, information from federal sources was that Mr. Bennett has started off a series of bilateral negotiations between the federal government and his, evidently aiming at more money for B.C.

Harris Spells Out Why Can't Pay More

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Walter Harris bluntly told the provincial premiers' conference Friday the central government's tax-splitting proposals "go just as far as we can go at this time."

If any province needed more revenue, he said, it could go into double taxation, levying tolls beyond the federal deductions allowed.

WIRE BRIEFS

Ireland Wins Rugby

DUBLIN (Reuters)—Ireland beat Wales 11-3 here today in an International Rugby Union match.

Medic Show Cancelled

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The NBC television network has cancelled Monday's scheduled "Medic" program showing the birth of a baby by Caesarian section because it "would be unsuitable for home audiences." The cancellation cost NBC $35,000 it was reported.

City Dads Fight

EDMONTON (CP)—Mayor J. M. Stone and Councillor R. F. Lambert of adjoining Jasper Place have been charged with creating a disturbance following a fist fight on a Jasper Place street.

4 Priests Missing

LENOX, Mass. (UP)—Four Jesuits were missing and five others seriously burned early today when fire ravaged the Shadowbrook novitiate.

The federal formula will provide the provinces with $640,000,000 in the first year of the five-year formula—$108,000,000 more than would have been available if there had been renewal of the terms of the current five-year tax rental pacts which expire next year.

The $640,000,000 would be made up of $152,000,000 in share-the-wealth equalization payments, $465,000,000 in direct tax-rental allowances and $23,000,000 through removal of the tax on insurance premiums from the definition of special corporation taxes.

GONE TO LIMIT

"We cannot at this time make any further material concessions that would adversely affect our revenues," Mr. Harris said in a statement released to the press at the end of the closed meeting.

Defence spending had been limited at about $1,800,000,000 in the last year or two. The government hoped it would not go higher but it could not be sure.

"Neither is it wholly within our control that they may not have to go up again quite sharply," he added.

Liberal Officers

PARKSVILLE (CP)—H. J. Welch of Qualicum Beach has been elected president of the South Comox Liberal Association to succeed Douglas Findlay, also of Qualicum Beach.

Other officers are Mrs. Mary Sutherland, Parksville, and Fred Shorrock, Lantzville, vice-presidents and Mrs. M. A. Elliot of Parksville, secretary-treasurer.

Premier Bennett Not Satisfied; 'Pleas Ignored'

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—British Columbia stands to collect an estimated $53,765,000 in the fiscal year 1957-58, under the final federal tax-sharing proposals, put forward by Prime Minister St. Laurent at the federal-provincial conference here Friday.

The potential revenue represents an estimated increase of $1,095,000 over the amount that would go to the provincial treasury if the existing tax rental agreements formula was continued in operation in 1957-58. It represents a percentage increase over the 1952 formula of 2.1 per cent.

The percentage increases in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are, respectively, 14.9, 19.7 and 21.3.

OFFER FINAL

Prime Minister St. Laurent and Hon. Walter Harris, minister of finance, made it clear to nine provincial premiers that the federal government's offer was final. They rejected the provincial governments' submission that the provinces needed more income.

Grand total revenue available to all 10 provinces under the new tax-sharing formula is an estimated $640,085,000, an increase of $108,650,000 over the grand total that would be available to the provinces, including Quebec, if the existing tax rental agreements were operative for 1957-58.

The present tax rental agreements expire next year. Mr. Harris will bring down amendments to the legislation in his budget this month, effective Jan. 1, 1957, which will provide for the changes made necessary.

Cup Survivors Fare Well in League Soccer

LONDON (Reuters)—The four surviving teams in the Football Association Cup competition won or tied their games in English League play today.

Tottenham drew 1-1 with Portsmouth and Birmingham 0-0 with Wolverhampton. Manchester City beat West Bromwich 4-0 away and Sunderland scored a 2-1 win at Everton.

But in Scotland the story of cup teams was different. Hearts won 2-0 at Stirling Albion while Hibernians tied 2-2 with Raith Rovers but Celtic lost 3-0 at East Fife and Clyde crashed to a 5-0 defeat by Aberdeen.

In the English League First Division race, Manchester United dropped a home point as it allowed Cardiff City to draw 1-1. Manchester is still well in the lead for the championship.

Blackpool kept six points behind Manchester United, drawing 3-3 at Preston.

Icy Roads Blamed For Two Accidents

Weather that has produced snow showers for the past week, and hazardous driving conditions Friday night, is expected to return Sunday night after a comparatively clear period tonight and Sunday.

Road conditions were blamed for two collisions Friday at the same spot on the Trans-Canada highway near Thetis Lake.

In the first accident at 7:50 p.m., a pickup truck driven by Lee Wing Pot, 710 Discovery, went out of control on the icy road surface and collided with a car driven by Allan Guiney, Langford.

Only casualty was John Morrison, 1110 Greenwood, passenger in Lee's truck, who was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for minor head injuries and bruises.

Shortly after the accident the car of Abel M. Bannister, 646 Duneidin, who had stopped at the accident scene, was bumped from behind by another car driven by Karl D. Smith, Glen Lake.

$1,150 DAMAGE

Damage to the four vehicles was estimated at $1,150.

Just before midnight a brief but heavy snowfall occurred that came close to blinding drivers, and forced traffic to crawl in low gear. Motorists reported finding their way extremely difficult in unlighted areas of the district, and sanding crews were put to work on known trouble spots.

They were still at work in the city today.

Relief from the chilly ocean air that has caused the recent unsettled weather came today with a burst of cold, dry air from the mainland.

"That will mean just a few clouds tonight and Sunday, with the slim chance of a bit of snow," said weatherman William Mackie, "but another Pacific storm will move in Sunday afternoon. It will give clouds and perhaps snow Sunday night or Monday morning."

He predicted a temperature range of from 30 degrees to night to 45 degrees Sunday, and northerly winds tonight, swinging to easterly Sunday.

Pope to Bless World Sunday

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius will bless the world Sunday in a highlight of the solemn celebration here of his 80th birthday and the 17th anniversary of his coronation.

The leader of the Roman Catholic Church will give his blessing from the loggia of St. Peter's basilica, high above assembled thousands in the big, open square.

His blessing will come at the end of a solemn pontifical mass within the basilica. Church dignitaries and the representatives of countries throughout the world will honor the pontiff who was elected to St. Peter's throne March 2, 1939.

Dawley Broke Out 'To Help Family'

Case Adjourned to Next Week As Judge Ponders Sentence

(Special to the Times)

NANAIMO—"When I heard I was to be tried as an habitual criminal it was enough to send a man crazy," Clifford Dawley told Justice H. W. McInnes in Assize Court here Friday afternoon. Dawley said the first intimation that he was to be tried as "an habitual" was when his wife, Rose, brought newspapers to him in Oakalla and when he heard a radio broadcast.

QUEEN FLIES TO CORSICA FOR HOLIDAY

AJACCIO, Corsica (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth flew here today from London to join the Duke of Edinburgh on a yacht cruise in the Mediterranean.

Away from the cares of official duties, the Queen and her husband plan to spend a week cruising in the Mediterranean.

Their holiday has been stripped of all the pomp and ceremony that usually mark royal journeys abroad.

Prince Charles and Princess Anne did not even go to the airport to see their mother off.

BCE Protests To Gaglardi On Blasting

VANCOUVER (CP)—A high-ranking B.C. Electric official has protested "indiscriminate blasting" which he says is responsible for a power crisis in Squamish.

Vice-president W. C. Mainwaring today telephoned the protest to P. A. Gaglardi, provincial minister of highways.

Intermittent power blackouts have plagued the community for the last week.

"The people of Squamish are getting terrible service," Mr. Mainwaring said Friday. "I don't blame them for being fed up. The B.C. Electric is fed up right to the teeth."

He said the blackouts are the fault of contractors blasting on the new Squamish-Horseshoe Bay highway.

"They have blasted whenever they want to, with no warning so we could get line crews out there to stand by and repair the damage," Mr. Mainwaring said.

His company had a specific promise, he said, that blasting would be confined to certain slack periods in the electrical load.

"Employees of Britannia Mines and the mining company as well have lost thousands of dollars as a result of these long interruptions," Mr. Mainwaring said.

"The B.C. Electric has also lost thousands of dollars, and much goodwill."

From the witness box Dawley was answering Mr. Justice McInnes' remark that "it was very foolish to escape custody."

Dawley, choked with emotion, said, "When my wife came to tell me my first and foremost thought was for my family. That's why I escaped. I'm not sorry about it. I am proud about it. It was for the sole purpose of getting enough money to take care of my family."

Dawley's words tumbled out in an impassioned torrent of explanation. "It wasn't with the idea of shooting up the town."

Court adjourned at 4:30 till next Thursday, March 15, at 2:30 p.m. Meanwhile Dawley's fate hangs in balance. He may be considered as an habitual criminal under the old section of the criminal code which has been amended to "preventive detention" which may be revised each third year, or the equivalent of a life term. Dawley has yet to be sentenced after being convicted Thursday on three counts of stealing an automobile, a truck, and being in possession of house breaking implements.

LAWYER BLOCKED

An attempt by defence lawyer Lawrence Hill, during the morning session, to block court proceedings of "preventive detention" against Dawley was overruled by Mr. Justice McInnes. Mr. Hill maintained that the application for the preventive proceedings should have been produced and filed before Dawley stood trial on the three charges for which he was convicted Thursday.

The Vancouver lawyer for defence said, "This is only a matter of sentence and the filing of preventive detention from the attorney-general's department should have been made before the trial."

Justice McInnes said, "I'll continue on Page 2"

Mid-East Turmoil Alarms Washington Stirs New UN Call

(Times News Service)

Infuriated mobs of anti-British rioters battled police and troops today in Cyprus and Greece protesting Britain's exile of Cyprus Nationalist leader, Archbishop Makarios.

In the Greek cities of Athens and Salonika, and on Cyprus thousands of rioters man-handled Britons, attacked armored cars with clubs and stones, and tore down signs bearing British names.

Rioters seriously damaged the British consulate at Heraklion, Crete.

The fast-spreading turmoil in the Mid-East now extends from Israel to Tunis, in North Africa, where mobs wrecked U.S. offices and houses.

The new violence along the shores of the Mediterranean followed the exiling by Britain of Archbishop Makarios, leader of the island's union-with-Greece. The Greek Orthodox churchman was flown to Mombasa, Kenya, Friday with his three top aides, under police escort.

Today he is on a Royal Navy frigate bound for the Seychelles, remote British island colony 600 miles out in the Indian ocean.

Latest Developments

Newest developments in the fast-moving Mid-East crisis:

1. Greece files bitter protest with United Nations against exile of Makarios.

2. Envoy of Jordan's King Hussein reaches Cairo with reply to Arab war council's offer of millions in cash designed to switch Jordan Legion into Arab world's "mutual front" against Israel.

3. Alarmed U.S. officials at Washington call for urgent United Nations' action to stop "dangerous developments" in Middle East and North Africa.

4. Both Israel and Egypt report new shooting incidents along the tense Arab-Israeli frontiers. Two reported killed in Jordanian attack on Jewish village.

5. At Halifax, new Jewish student demonstrations are feared as longshoremen load nine Harvard airplanes for Egypt.

6. British foreign secretary Selwyn Lloyd reaches Tehran on rush tour of Britain's allies in the Mid-East Baghdad pact.

7. At Paris, riot police and mobile guardsmen patrol streets following Algerian riots on eve of French Assembly vote on Premier Guy Mollet's demand for special powers to deal with rebels in North Africa.

The uproar in the Mid-East on the deporting of Archbishop Makarios broke a new political storm around Prime Minister Anthony Eden's government. Opposition MPs called the churchman's arrest and exile "folly... an act of madness."

Greece recalled its ambassador to London and complained to the United Nations. Political leaders in Greece called the action "astounding... brutal."

Ex-Cop Faces Charge Of Holding Up Bank

WINNIPEG (CP)—A former suburban St. Boniface policeman, fired Feb. 7 because of conduct unbecoming an officer, was arrested Friday in connection with a bank holdup here Thursday and an attempted bank holdup Tuesday.

Inspector of Detectives James Mulholland said today that Anthony Jaworski, 27, will be charged Monday with robbing a branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank of $1,215 Thursday.

The theft complaint was laid by four members of the finance committee of the church. Fraser was steward of the building fund.

NEEDED FOR OPERATION

The court was told that Fraser told police he had received a letter from the woman saying she needed money for an operation. He sent some.

A second letter arrived asking for more money and Fraser sent it along. Fraser told police he got the cash from envelopes earmarked for the building fund. Police said he "appeared relieved on being arrested."

Mr. Maclean said his client had been left $21,000 in his father's will and this had also gone to the woman. The sister of the woman in question, Mr. Maclean said, received $5,600 of this money.

Mr. Maclean summed up: "It appears the glamor of a strip dancer has just stripped him of $24,000."

Liberals May Delay Provincial Parley

VANCOUVER (CP)—Possible postponement of the provincial Liberal convention, scheduled for here next month, will be discussed next weekend during an executive committee meeting.

"The convention date still stands," said provincial president Sydney J. Smith, "but it will be discussed by the executive."

Convention date is April 6 and 7.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Father, we thank Thee for Your guidance through the days that are past, that in the small and large tensions we have been kept from panic, and that tomorrow brings still another opportunity for the renewal of the strength you offer to all men through Jesus Christ. Amen.

FINAL BULLETINS

Britain Seen on 'Brink of War'

RAWENSTAIL, Eng. (AP) — Britain stands on the "brink of war," a leader of the Labor party said today in a political speech.

Anthony Greenwood, a member of the Labor party's policy making "shadow cabinet" in Parliament, told a party rally:

"We are turning our friends in Cyprus into enemies. Our influence in Jordan has been almost completely destroyed. And we now stand on the brink of war."

Politician Shot 4 Times in Head

NEWARK, N.J. (UP)—Louis B. Saperstein, 49, political and labor figure here, was shot four times today by a gunman who pumped the bullets into his head while he sat in his parked car talking to an unidentified woman.

Hospital authorities said two of the bullets struck Saperstein's left ear, one lodged in his mouth, and the fourth slug passed through his throat and continued out the car window.

Mass-Killer Claims Self Defence

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—A statement in which John Petlock told police he shot his brother Mike in self-defence at Fenwood, Sask., last Aug. 29, was read into evidence today during the murder trial of the 36-year-old Fenwood farmer.

Petlock was charged with the murder of his brother following a multiple slaying near Fenwood in which Mike, his mother, his wife and two children were killed.

Former Governor-General Dies

ROWLANDS CASTLE, Eng. (AP)—The Earl of Bessborough, 75, died today. He was governor-general of Canada from 1931-35.

Mounties Get 3 Oriole Castoffs

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—Manager Paul Richards cut 12 men from his Baltimore Orioles today. Shortstop Willy Quintana, on 24-hour recall, goes to Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast League. Pitcher Bob Schmitt and outfielder Willie Tasby were also sent to Vancouver.

Japanese Due at Fishermen's Parley

VANCOUVER (CP)—Delegates from two Japanese trade unions will attend a convention of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union here this month, Homer Stevens, secretary, said Saturday. He said Russian and U.S. delegates will also attend.

OTTAWA—British Columbia stands to collect an estimated $53,765,000 in the fiscal year 1957-58, under the final federal tax-sharing proposals, put forward by Prime Minister St. Laurent at the federal-provincial conference here Friday.

The potential revenue represents an estimated increase of $1,095,000 over the amount that would go to the provincial treasury if the existing tax rental agreements formula was continued in operation in 1957-58.

It represents a percentage increase over the 1952 formula of 2.1 per cent.

The percentage increases in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are, respectively, 14.9, 19.7 and 21.3.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and Hon. Walter Harris, minister of finance, made it clear to nine provincial premiers that the federal government's offer was final. They rejected the provincial governments' submission that the provinces needed more income.

Grand total revenue available to all 10 provinces under the new tax-sharing formula is an estimated $640,085,000, an increase of $108,650,000 over the grand total that would be available to the provinces, including Quebec, if the existing tax rental agreements were operative for 1957-58.

The present tax rental agreements expire next year. Mr. Harris will bring down amendments to the legislation in his budget this month, effective Jan. 1, 1957, which will provide for the changes made necessary.

Icy Roads Blamed for Accidents

Weather that has produced snow showers for the past week, and hazardous driving conditions Friday night, is expected to return Sunday night after a comparatively clear period to-night and Sunday.

Road conditions were blamed for two collisions Friday at the same spot on the Trans-Canada highway near Thetis Lake.

In the first accident at 7:50 p.m., a pickup truck driven by Lee Wing-Poi, 710 Discovery, went out of control on the icy road surface and collided with a car driven by Allan Guiney, Langford.

Only casualty was John Morrison, 1110 Greenwood, passenger in Lee's truck, who was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for minor head injuries and bruises.

Shortly after the accident the car of Abel M. Bannister, 646 Dunedin, who had stopped at the accident scene, was bumped from behind by another car driven by Karl D. Smith, Glen Lake.

$130 DAMAGE

Damage to the four vehicles was estimated at $130.

Just before midnight a brief but heavy snowfall occurred that came close to blinding drivers, and forced traffic to crawl in low gear. Motorists reported finding their way extremely difficult in unlighted areas of the district, and sanding crews were put to work on known trouble spots.

They were still at work in the city today.

Relief from the chilly ocean air that has caused the recent unsettled weather came today with a burst of cold, dry air from the mainland.

"That will mean just a few clouds tonight and Sunday, with the slim chance of a bit of snow," said weatherman William Mackie, "but another Pacific storm will move in Sunday afternoon. It will give clouds and perhaps snow Sunday night or Monday morning."

He predicted a temperature range of from 30 degrees to-night to 45 degrees Sunday, and northerly winds tonight, swinging to easterly Sunday.

BCE Protests To Gaglardi On Blasting

VANCOUVER (CP)—A high-ranking B.C. Electric official has protested "indiscriminate blasting" which he says is responsible for a power crisis in Squamish.

Vice-president W. C. Mainwaring today telephoned the protest to P. A. Gaglardi, provincial minister of highways.

Intermittent power blackouts have plagued the community for the last week.

"The people of Squamish are getting terrible service," Mr. Mainwaring said Friday. "I don't blame them for being fed up. The B.C. Electric is fed up right to the teeth."

He said the blackouts are the fault of contractors blasting on the new Squamish-Horseshoe Bay highway.

"They have blasted whenever they want to, with no warning so we could get line crews out there to stand by and repair the damage," Mr. Mainwaring said.

His company had a specific promise, he said, that blasting would be confined to certain slack periods in the electrical load.

"Employees of Britannia Mines and the mining company as well have lost thousands of dollars as a result of these long interruptions," Mr. Mainwaring said.

"The B.C. Electric has also lost thousands of dollars, and much goodwill."

QUEEN FLIES TO CORSICA FOR HOLIDAY

AJACCIO, Corsica (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth flew here today from London to join the Duke of Edinburgh on a yacht cruise in the Mediterranean.

Away from the cares of official duties, the Queen and her husband plan to spend a week cruising in the Mediterranean.

Their holiday has been stripped of all the pomp and ceremony that usually mark royal journeys abroad.
